Ex-City Head Clashes With Commission On Rule Bill

Dr. Brownlow Calls Auchincloss Plan An Ideal Charter; Opponents Assailed

By Edward F. Ryan

Dr. Louis Brownlow, former District Commissioner, clashed yesterday with the city's present administration by urging passage of the Auchincloss-Ball home-rule bill.

Brownlow told the Joint Congressional home-rule committee that the bill would give Washington "a charter as good as any I've ever read, if not better."

The committee also heard sharp criticism of the bill's opponents from Kenneth P. Armstrong, treasurer of the Federation of Citizens Associations, testing as local suffrage chairman for the Central Suffrage Conference. He charged the opponents to home rule were moved, variously, by self-interest, lack of faith in the American form of government, or ignorance of the District's history and government.

Day's Unanimous Lineup
Brownlow, Armstrong, and four other witnesses were the first unanimous lineup for the home-rule bill in any day since the hearings started Monday. Washington's Commissioners launched an all-out attack on the opening day against the bill, but the bill's supporters were divided in the other sessions.

Also testifying yesterday were John H. Connaughton, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations; Wilbur S. Finch, president of the Central Suffrage Conference, and suffrage committee chairman for the Federation of Citizens Associations; Austin L. Fickling, chairman of the suffrage committee of the Federation of Civic Associations made up of Negro groups; and Mrs. Milton Dunn, of the District League of Women Voters. While backing the bill, witnesses suggested a number of changes.

Business, Labor Today
Business and labor spokesmen will testify when the hearings resume at 9:30 a. m. today in the Caucus Room, Old House Office Building. The witnesses include John A. Reilly, president of the Washington Board of Trade; James S. Beattie, president of the Junior Board of Commerce; C. F. Preller, president of the Central Labor Union, AFL; and Mrs. Gertrude Evans, executive secretary, Washington Industrial Council Council, CIO. About 25 witnesses will be heard tomorrow, from 10 a. m. to noon, and 1 to 4 p. m.

The home-rule bill calls for streamlining the District government and placing an elected city council at its head. There would be an elected school board. A council-appointed city manager would have direct charge of most city departments. Major District legislation would be prepared by the council, but would become law only if neither House of Congress nor the President vetoed it.

Finch Praises Brownlow
Dr. Brownlow was warmly praised by Finch as "representing the type of District Commissioner we used to get—we haven't had that type for a long time."

Brownlow told the committee it was basic to democracy that the people should run their own local affairs, in any city, large or small. He said the reorganization features of the bill were "excellent" and added "I heartily endorse the whole scheme of things embodied in this bill."

He suggested, however, that the bill should make clear that the proposed District manager would "serve literally at the pleasure of the District Council. The right

Brunette and Blonde Pitted In Mary Worth Model Contest

GINI MACNAUGHT

"Beverly" "Frankie"

A dramatic-looking brunette and a self-styled "silly" blonde, both 20 and lovely, yesterday walked off with top honors in the "Miss Government Girl" contest sponsored by The Washington Post.

The winners, both of whom will be featured in a sequence of the Mary Worth comic strip, were Gini MacNaught, of 4615 21st st., a Veterans' Administration typist, No. 1 choice, and Audrey Hall, of 4815 4th st., n.w., an Agriculture Department bookkeeper, second choice.

Ten other Government lovelies were selected as runners-up by Allen Saunders, writer, and Ken Ernst, artist for the strip, in final judging at Hotel Mayflower.

Jury Clears Laughlin and Dr. Peckham

Defendants Smile On Hearing Verdict Reached in 5 Hours

By Howard Duthie

Attorney James J. Laughlin and Dr. Henry L. Peckham, Jr., were cleared of criminal abortion charges last night by a District Court jury which examined the evidence for more than five hours.

The two defendants were charged, respectively, with procuring and performing an abortion on Laughlin's former sweetheart, Mrs. Esther Pickard Hobbs, 23, last March.

Laughlin and Peckham flashed big smiles when the jury of 10 men and 2 women read the verdict. Laughlin's two daughters, Betty and Mary, who had testified in his defense, rushed to him and embraced him.

Congratulations were also showered on Laughlin by his law partner, Charles F. Spohler, and T. E. McKenzie, who aided in his defense.

Dr. Peckham was congratulated on the verdict by his attorneys, H. Mason Welch and Dorsey Offutt. He juried, which spaced its deliberations with an hour interval, back to the courtroom. In contrast to Laughlin's apparent nervousness, Dr. Peckham seemed calm while he awaited the decision.

About 40 spectators were in the courtroom when the verdict was announced.

Before the case went to the jury, Justice Laws delivered a two-hour charge, saying: "If you believe this case came into court as a result of blackmail and conspiracy... you should acquit the defendants and acquit them promptly."

Referring to two letters alleged to have been written by Laughlin, Justice Laws said: "You should acquit the defendants and acquit them promptly."

Control Extension Is Advanced

Controversial Issues Are Indicated in Bill Approved by Senate Subcommittee

A Senate Banking Subcommittee yesterday approved a bill to keep rents controlled for another 14 months, but with no limits where tenants and landlords agree to leases running to the end of 1949.

The bill would keep a form of rent control until April, 1949. Present rates would appear to remain until that date except in cases where tenants sign the longer lease, or have already signed a "voluntary" lease with a 15 per cent increase.

But only about half of the bill's provisions were made public yesterday, and there were indications that the other 50 per cent might contain some sweeping changes, particularly in administrative matters.

Full Committee to Act
These could have very considerable effect in making it much easier for a landlord to provide a "hardship" and thus justify a rent boost.

The bill goes to the Full Banking Committee today. It was voted on unanimously yesterday by a four-man subcommittee headed by Senator Cain (R., Wash.).

Cain declared that half of the bill contained "new and controversial" provisions and that he did not choose to describe them until they were considered by the full committee.

Several Points Discussed
Those sections he did talk about, however, seemed controversial enough. Among them:

1. If landlord and tenant agree on a lease that runs beyond the April, 1949, expiration date until at least December, 1949, there is no limit on the rent that can be charged. If the tenant vacates the unit before the lease expires, however, the rent for the succeeding tenants reverts to the previous figure plus 15 per cent.

2. Rents which have already been raised up to 15 per cent, under the "voluntary" provision of the present law, will be completely and permanently decontrolled after December 31 this year.

3. Provisions in the present law (it expires at the end of this month) restricting the use of scarce materials for recreational buildings, etc., would be removed. At a press conference, Cain admitted that other provisions, important "administratively," have encouragement to rectifying hardship cases among landlords.

Silent on Other Questions
Significantly, he refused to comment on other matters about which there has been much speculation. These include the possibility that all rents above a certain dollar figure—$150 or more a month—would be decontrolled at once.

Also unanswered was the question of how much more power would be put in the hands of local rent advisory boards. These have been far more eager to grant rent increases than the Federal Housing Expediter in Washington.

The question at issue is to what extent the Housing Expediter can, in the future, curb or reject rent-reduction recommendations from the advisory groups in each locality.

Cain described the bill as a "last-minute" extension. He said members of his group were "absolutely opposed to extending the controls any further than April 30, 1949."

Those voting for it, in addition to Cain, were Senators C. Douglas Buck (R., Del.), John W. Bricker (R., Ohio), and J. William Fulbright (D., Ark.). The fifth member, Senator Glen H. Taylor (D., Idaho) is in a hospital and could not attend yesterday's session.

Commodity Prices Drop Again, Stocks at Lowest Since June; New Food Saving Drive Starts

Anderson Indicates Nation Will Meet Its Wheat Export Goal for Year

By Alfred Friendly

Agriculture Secretary Anderson yesterday fired the starting gun of a new food conservation campaign with his first official intimation that the United States would reach its wheat export goal of 500 million bushels this year.

At the same time, in a statement apparently designed to bolster yesterday's nose-diving grain market, he said he expected to find 50 million additional bushels of wheat, and, if so, promised to buy it for export.

That 50 million bushels, anticipated to be freed by reduced grain feeding to livestock, would be added to the 450 million bushels which hitherto was the tentative estimate for export.

Anderson's summary of "export probabilities," issued after the market closed yesterday, might have a price boosting effect, if traders interpreted it that way.

Promises to Create Market
In effect, Anderson took official notice of the prospective increase of wheat supplies, because of reduced feeding to livestock, and promised to create a market and demand for it.

He also announced that his department had allocated about 35,684,000 bushels of grain and grain products for export to shortage areas in March. Though this is slightly less than the amount set aside for this month, it is far above the figures for the three previous months.

It brings the allocations for the crop year—last July through next March—to 444,400,000 bushels, of which about 65 million bushels are coarse grains.

The department's new food conservation drive, directed principally at the housewife, was discussed at a conference of representatives of food trades, consumers and farmers.

No specific details were made public because, Anderson said, tentative plans needed further review. In general, however, the aim is a sort of voluntary "kitchen front" program to fight inflation.

Housewives will be advised by Government experts on how to cut food costs in planning their meals, what foods to buy, and what to pass up.

Principal emphasis will be to urge consumers to limit their meat purchases. In that way, farmers will be discouraged from feeding valuable wheat to livestock.

Urges Watchfulness
Anderson said the campaign will emphasize that consumers "will have to be more watchful of dollars spent for food."

"What we need is a little more business administration in running the kitchen. A lot of housewives have been doing that for years. We hope to get a lot more of them into the habit."

The department is preparing to publish its first "Family Food Budget" at the New York City food show late this month.

In a drive to save grain on still another front, the department urged Congress yesterday to grant

Truman Labels Eisenhower Budget Cutting As Just Talk

Kind of Conversation He Doesn't Like, Says Taber in Rejoinder

By Robert C. Albright

President Truman yesterday tangled with Republican ax-wielders, predicting efforts to chop 2½ billion dollars from his budget will get exactly nowhere.

By way of answer, GOP leaders called a meeting of the 102-man Legislative Budget Committee today to ratify 37.2-billion ceiling on 1949 fiscal year spending.

Once nominal spending limits are set, the Senate Finance Committee will be convened in about two weeks to open Senate hearings on tax cuts.

Senate Finance Chairman Eugene Millikin (R., Colo.) indicated the House-passed 6½-billion-dollar tax-reduction bill is being held up for clarification of two points:

(1) The over-all budget outlook and (2) how much will be earmarked for European recovery.

Plan to start overhauling the Knutson tax cuts in committee shortly after the Senate Foreign Relations group completes its recommendations on the Marshall Plan.

In his news conference yesterday, Mr. Truman described Republican efforts to cut his 39.7 billion budget as so much conversation. He said he heard much the same talk last year when he asked for 37.5 billion dollars. Instead of cutting the total, he said Congress ended up by appropriating 37.7 billion.

House Appropriations Chairman John Taber (R., N. Y.) left a budget-slashing conference to say: "It's the kind of conversation he (Truman) don't like."

Senate Appropriations Chairman Styles Bridges (R., N. H.) added: "Last year he (Truman) made the same disparaging remarks about the efforts of Congress to reduce spending."

Differ on '47 Savings
Taber continued to argue that Congress last year cut nearly three billion from the President's spending estimates, and reclaimed another 1.4 billion in unspent funds. Bridges doubled Taber's claim. He said he could demonstrate that if cutbacks in past appropriations were counted, Congress really saved seven billion dollars last year.

Agreed on an over-all 2½-billion cut, he said.

Navy to Build Aircraft Carrier Displacing 60-to-80,000 Tons

By John G. Norris

Naval Secretary Sullivan announced yesterday that work had been halted on two guided missile warships to enable the Navy to build a giant aircraft carrier and five other radically different warcraft.

"Indefinite suspension" of construction of guided missile ships Kentucky and Hawaii, was agreed to, he told a press conference, after the Bureau of the Budget denied all funds for new naval shipbuilding next year.

Under a compromise reached, Congress will be asked to divert funds slated for finishing the two craft to build six warships of

Grain Drops Limit As Wednesday's Break Carries Through 2d Day

Chicago, Feb. 5 (AP)—Grain prices crashed the permissible limit in all United States markets today for the second straight day and New York stocks back-pedaled to the lowest levels since June.

As Wednesday's sharp commodity price break stretched through its second day, with scarcely a flutter of recovery support, some business and grain experts speculated whether the turning point in the postwar inflationary spiral might be at hand.

In any event, the high cost of living has taken a stiff long-range wallop and if the trend continues it will take some strain off the housewife's food budget.

Wheat Drops the Limit
Wheat, the kingpin in the Nation's commodity price economy, plunged the permissible daily limit of 10 cents a bushel in Chicago, Minneapolis and Kansas City—repeating Wednesday's performance. Prices took the full fall at the opening, attempted a feeble rally, and then slipped back again.

Nearly all other grains for future delivery broke the full limit in all markets on the North American continent. Rye fell the limit at Winnipeg, Canada; oats and barley, however, held up better there.

Both New York stocks and bonds continued to slide. While extreme losses were reduced here and there on the New York Stock Exchange, declines of fractions to 2 or more points were in the majority, with virtually all groups affected at the close.

New York cotton futures finished the day $1.05 to $2.05 a bale lower, although the close was above the day's lows.

At Chicago, hog prices ended 25 to 50 cents a hundred pounds lower for the third successive daily price fall. It marked the first sustained slump in hog prices since late October, pulling prices down $1. The top today was $26.25.

Hogs Decline Again
President Truman said prices are rising so alarmingly that a crash is inevitable unless something is done to halt them.

A. W. Zelomke of the International Statistical Bureau in New York said the break might be the turning point of inflation. He predicted a pronounced price break might release a hoard of vitally needed goods held by jittery speculators who had been expecting a further rise.

Ray Templeman of Thomas & McKinnon, Chicago grain commission firm, said that "confidence has been dealt a rude jolt, bringing a situation that is not likely to be

New Food-Saving Campaign Will Set Up 'Kitchen Front'

A new authority to limit distillers' use of grain. Assistant Secretary Charles F. Brannan appeared before the Joint Congressional Committee on the Economic Report, in support of Mr. Truman's request to this end last week.

Arguing that liquor stocks on hand were ample, Brannan said that if the rationing authority were granted, the department proposed to allocate the "generous" amount of 2,500,000 bushels a month to distillers.

He pointed out that when previous powers to allocate grain to the whisky-makers expired last Saturday, consumption skyrocketed. As of February 2, Brannan stated, the industry was using grain at the rate of 5,800,000 bushels a month.

Brannan insisted that "we cannot hope to control inflation in food if we permit our grain to be diverted to non-essential uses."

Price Fall a Factor

But some observers felt that his appeal would have rough sledding in view of the downward movement of wheat and corn prices in the last two days. With prices falling, the inflationary danger and the argument of grain scarcity seemed less compelling.

Brannan was followed to the witness stand by a series of whisky industry representatives, almost all of them dead-set against the restoration of grain limitations.

In general, they complained that the distillers were being discriminated against, in being asked to curb their business while no other industry was so affected.

Some of the industry leaders, however, appeared almost resigned to the restoration of controls and made their principal arguments over the amount of grain to be granted them, and the formula under which it was to be done.

Publisher Is Target

They preferred a monthly quota of 3,500,000 bushels, rather than the proposed 2,500,000. And they asked that it be distributed among the companies on a basis of previous sales, or historic record of use, rather than on grain-mashing capacity.

Target of this attack was the Publisher Industries, Inc., which, with Government financing during the war, greatly expanded its capacity for manufacture of industrial alcohol.

Publisher's spokesman, A. P. Fenderson, as might be expected, favored the "capacity" formula. And alone of the industry witnesses, he backed the proposal to reinstitute allocations.

Elsewhere on Capitol Hill yesterday, the Senate Banking Committee ended several weeks of hearings on the high cost of living. It is considering legislation to carry out broad phases of President Truman's original anti-inflation program—particularly price ceilings, rationing and allocations of critical materials and goods.

dent in charge of sales for the Proctor & Gamble Co., which makes Crisco.

Tobey challenged Wood to explain why Crisco is selling at the highest price in its history while the cost of its principal ingredients is dropping.

"There's a great inconsistency between your prices and your costs," he said. "It looks like cupid and lust for profits."

Wood's face reddened and he shouted back:

"I don't think it's due to lust. I don't think it's due to advantage of the public. I don't think you're justified in charging me or my company with taking advantage of the public."

"On your own figures, you have not supported your case," Tobey retorted.

The Senator recalled that Wood had just shown him company figures putting Proctor & Gamble's profit, after charges, for the last six months of 1947 at $77,000,000. This, he said, equalled $12 a share on the company stock and was the biggest profit Proctor & Gamble ever made.

Truman Scoffs At Budget Cut

llion-dollar budget cut next year, to make way for tax reduction and a minimum 2.5-billion-dollar payment on the debt, the Bridges-Taber budget subcommittee yesterday adopted an eight-page report recommending the new spending ceiling.

The report upped Mr. Truman's 44.5-billion-dollar revenue estimate to 47.3 billion, and figured a balance for tax cuts and debt payment of 10.1 billion.

Said the report:

"This Nation is admittedly in grave danger of runaway inflation which, if historical precedents are any guide, might, if unchecked, result in serious economic upheavals."

"Under such conditions, our present revenues would decline markedly, resulting in an increased debt and increased taxation unless present spending policies are curtailed."

"Since Federal, State and local expenditures constitute the single greatest inflationary force in our economy, these expenditures should be curtailed wherever possible."

Truman Asked Stalin to Reply To Churchill Talk

By the United Press

The White House revealed yesterday that President Truman in 1946 invited Russian Premier Josef Stalin to come to the United States aboard the United States battleship Missouri and reply to Winston Churchill's famous "iron curtain" speech at Fulton, Mo.

Stalin sent back a "polite declination."

The invitation was extended a few months after Mr. Truman accompanied Churchill to Westminster College in Missouri for the speech in which the British wartime Premier called for a strong Anglo-American stand against Russian expansionism.

Stalin was infuriated by the speech, and lashed out at Churchill as a "warmonger" in a broadcast from Moscow.

Press Secretary Charles Ross said Mr. Truman then asked Stalin to speak at the University of Missouri, in Columbia, Mo. Mr. Truman planned to escort Stalin to Missouri, Ross said.

cleared up overnight." He added, limit today on all United States markets.

Hogs at Sioux City and Omaha were off as much as $1 a hundred pounds today, $1.25 at St. Louis, and 75 cents at Indianapolis.

The Associated Press composite of 35 wholesale commodity prices scored its sharpest drop in more than nine months, falling 2.47 points to 197.46. This compared with a 208.14 high set January 9. Average 1926 prices are 100 in the index.

The decline in New York stocks was attributed to a long list of pessimistic doubts and influences, including the commodity price slump and some belief that the Administration may take additional anti-inflation steps. The market, however, made a better showing than on Wednesday. Buying in the final hour was aggressive.

Wholesale Prices Drop

By The Associated Press

A drop in wholesale prices for the second straight week was reported yesterday by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The bureau said its index for the week ended January 31, declined .4 per cent to 163.7 per cent of the 1926 average.

That left the index of 900 commodities .4 per cent below a month ago, but 16.7 per cent higher than the corresponding week in 1947.

President Truman told a news conference that price levels are alarming and he feels as strongly as ever that he ought to have power to impose price ceilings and order rationing. He cited Government price charts on recent cost of living increases.

Congressional leaders say, however, there is little chance new price control powers will be given to the President, certainly not as broad as he seeks.

The commodity price slide offered American consumers some hope that rocketing living costs may soon start down. Wheat plays a predominant role in deciding many consumer prices and if that cereal continues to drop, some other commodities should follow.

Although the first sharp wheat price break did not come in Chicago until Wednesday, the market has been slumping for the past few weeks.

Wheat Futures Down

Wheat futures at the close today were down between 32 1/4 and 40 3/4 cents a bushel from the mid-January peak; corn was down 28 3/4 to 39 3/4 cents, oats off 17 1/4 to 23 cents, soybeans down 7 1/4 to 72 1/4 cents and lard down $7.72 to $8.13 a hundred pounds.

May wheat closed at $2.66 1/4 a bushel, May corn 2.31 1/4, May oats $1.06 1/4, March soybeans $3.70, and March lard $21.15.

With the exception of September and December oats futures in Chicago, all grains closed off the to vibrate with emotion. He said he resented the implication that general officers of the Army were going around with knives, and sickles and trying to crucify a fellow officer.

He recalled that he worked for General MacArthur for nine years, first when MacArthur was Chief of Staff and then when both were in the Philippines. He said that MacArthur was the last to say goodbye to him when he left the Philippines, and the first to greet him when he arrived in Japan on a tour of inspection in 1946.

Friendship Is Stressed

"I hope he feels as great a friendship for me as I feel for him," Ike said, adding the remark that he would never knowingly do anything to damage him.

General Eisenhower, who soon will take over his $25,000-a-year post as president of Columbia University, was in a jolly mood before the MacArthur question arose. He disclosed for the first time that he was retiring as Chief of Staff at noon Saturday, and recalled what one of his predecessors said about the ideal retirement: to put a chair out on the porch, sit in it for six months, and then begin to rock slowly.

He praised the Marshall Plan, the merger of the armed forces, and universal military training.

He said that the Marshall Plan was essential from the standpoint of America's security; that it would strengthen our democratic allies abroad, and thus prevent any despotism from ruling a large party of the world. If some power did gain a large part of the world, cutting the United States off from raw materials and allies, he said, it would present us with an "insoluble" problem.

Ground Forces Merger

Talking about the merger of the armed forces, General Eisenhower said he liked to envision a day when officers of the Army, Navy and Air Force would study in each other's schools, serve for a time in the other's stations and ships, and so reach a point where they would be oblivious to differences and distinctions.

He pointed out that the Army is now short by 100,000 soldiers, and he called on everyone to become "a voluntary recruiting sergeant." A police force that is too weak, he said, encourage disorder.

At the Press Club table were two men who, Ike said, were his right and left arms in his pursuit and victory over the Germans in western Europe—Gen. Omar Bradley, incoming Chief of Staff, and Gen. Carl (Toomy) Spaatz, Chief of Staff of the Air Force.

Ike asked Joseph H. Short, president of the Press Club, to allow him to introduce General Bradley. He called him one of "the greatest tacticians" the American Army has ever produced.

Senate Unit Backs Job Rights Bill

Committee's Approval of Measure Draws Quick Fire From Southerners

A national Fair Employment Practices bill to prevent job discrimination against Negroes and other minority groups yesterday was approved by the Senate Labor Committee.

Chairman Robert Taft (R., Ohio) was joined by four Republicans and two Democrats in opposing the measure.

Taft, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, said the measure would go before the GOP steering group for decision upon when it would reach the floor. Taft's opposition was taken as a strong indication that the Republican leadership would schedule consideration of anti-lynching legislation ahead of the FEPC bill.

Southerners Aroused
Committee approval of the measure added further fuel to flames of Southern opposition to President Truman's civil rights program.

Some of yesterday's developments included:
1. Gov. Fielding L. Wright of Mississippi yesterday called upon Mississippi Democrats to meet February 12—Lincoln's birthday—and map plans to counter the President's program. Wright said he would tell the Southern Governors, meeting in Florida today, how he believes the South should fight against "the South haters."

2. At his press conference, President Truman said he would leave comment on the party split to the press. National Democratic Committee Chairman J. Howard McGrath declined to say how seriously the national committee regarded the Southern opposition to the President's civil rights program.

Promises Filibuster
3. Senator Allen J. Ellender (D., La.) who voted against the FEPC measure in committee, said he expects to lead a Southern filibuster against it. Ellender said he is prepared with at least 40 hours of debate against FEPC, anti-lynching, or anti-poll-tax legislation.

4. Senator W. Lee (Tex., the Biscuits Pappy) O'Daniel (D., Tex.) told the Senate yesterday that President Truman's program was "un-American." He charged it was communistic. O'Daniel said that six members of the President's Civil Rights Commission had at one time or another been associated with Communist-front organizations. Among the six he named James B. Carey, secretary-treasurer of the CIO, leader of the anti-Communist fight within the CIO. Carey, O'Daniel admitted, seemed to be on the right track now.

Balint, Held as Alien, Faces Deportation

Philadelphia, Feb. 5 (AP).—The Immigration Service today said Alex Balint had been arrested in Cleveland for deportation.

An immigration spokesman said Balint was charged with being an alien and a member of an organization whose purpose it is to overthrow the United States Government.

Balint, 37, was born in a section of Hungary, which became Czechoslovakia after World War I.

Balint is regional director of the CIO-International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers.

Balint will be given a hearing in Cleveland.

Boy Hunting Dragons Found After 16 Hours

Sarasota, Fla., Feb. 5 (AP).—A 4-year-old boy went looking for wild dragons yesterday and became lost for 16 hours.

Rome Embassy Denies Fleet Isn't Welcome

Rome, Feb. 5 (AP).—The United States Embassy here officially denied today a report from Washington that Italy has suggested curtailment of visits by American warships to Italian ports.

The office of Premier Alcide de Gasperi also denied the report.

Student Flier Lands on Chin

student pilot, of 449 15th st. ne., is in Alexandria Hospital with a broken jaw after crash-landing his Piper Cub plane yesterday in a field 2 miles east of Fairfax, Va. Officials of Ashburn Flying Service at Hybla Valley Airport said the youth had been gliding down from 3000 feet when his carburetor iced and stalled the plane. The plane was slightly damaged.

Bostonian Courtesy, But Is It Progress?

Boston, Feb. 5 (AP).—Passengers who boarded the "Owl," New York, New Haven & Hartford sleeper here, slept sounder than most rail voyagers last night, but found themselves breakfasting in Boston instead of New York today.

As the train was pulling out at midnight, the locomotive became derailed. The train crew decided against disturbing the passengers—until the train rolled again at 7:45 a. m.

Clark Urges Teeth in Anti-Subversion Laws

By Mary Spargo

Attorney General Tom C. Clark yesterday asked Congress to put teeth in antismuggling laws to curb Communist spies.

His request was made in testimony before the House Un-American Activities Subcommittee studying Communist controls.

Chairman Richard M. Nixon (R., Calif.) said the committee will press for enactment of some kind of controls during this session of Congress.

The Attorney General opposed outlawing the Communist Party on the ground that this Government "should not run the risk of turning radicals into martyrs."

Registration Law Favored
The committee, Clark said, is "on the right track" in studying legislation requiring Communists to register as agents of a foreign power, and he said the Justice Department is now studying the constitutionality of this proposal.

A bill to achieve this has been introduced by Representative Karl Mundt (R., S. Dak.), who urged its adoption by the committee yesterday.

Clark recommended tightening of the espionage act, the foreign registration act and other pertinent statutes; deportation of all aliens who adhere to subversive dogmas; education of the public by exposure of Communist groups and individuals by Congress, the press, and the radio; active work by labor unions to rid themselves of subversive elements, and a complete purge of all subversives from the Federal payroll.

Exposure Held Effective
A continuous campaign of exposure of Communist organizations and groups can do more than all the statutes on the books, Clark told the committee, because of the difficulty of getting at the "fellow travelers."

The Attorney General's most vehement criticism was directed at the fellow travelers, although he refrained from naming one. These fellow travelers, Clark told the committee, "corrupt American life . . . by stealth, misrepresentation, by penetration and infiltration into many responsible organizations and mediums of public expression."

Communist spying techniques in this country have "developed considerably," Clark said. "We must keep pace with the advancement in espionage techniques," he added.

Montgomery Group To Urge Transit Board

A commission to handle suburban transportation problems will be proposed at a meeting of the Montgomery County Civic Federation Monday at 8 p. m. in Bethesda Elementary School.

Also on the agenda for the meeting is a discussion of land use in the county, the school building program, and a report on water and sewer connections in the area.

Disarmament Parley Urged by Finletter

New York, Feb. 5 (AP).—Thomas K. Finletter, chairman of the president's air policy commission, today urged that the United States summon a disarmament conference of United Nations members.

"It is time for the showdown on this business of organizing for world peace," he told a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York.

House Unit Courts Presidential Veto

The House Rules Committee yesterday courted a Presidential veto by sending to the floor a bill to bar salesmen and piece workers from Social Security benefits.

The bill would force the Treasury to cancel a proposed regulation broadening Social Security coverage in line with recent Supreme Court decisions. The regulation would bracket 500,000 to 750,000 persons, mostly salesmen and piece workers, under the Social Security program.

Rep. Clark Decides Not to Seek Re-election

Clearance by Planes Over Mountains Raised

The minimum space by which airline planes must clear the highest land along mountainous routes was raised by the Civil Aeronautics Board today to provide a greater margin of safety.

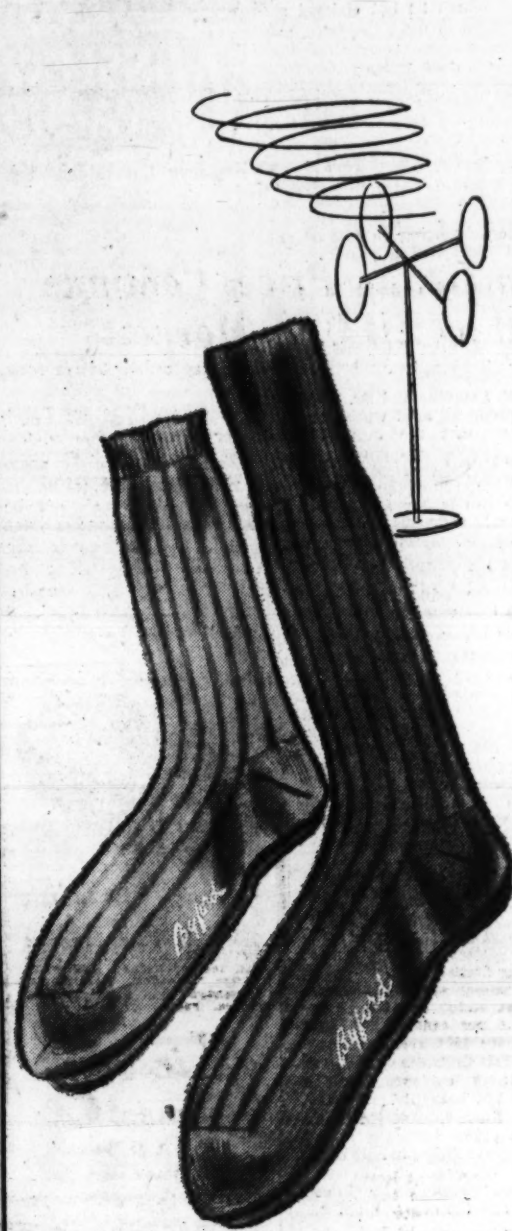

When flying on instruments (without being able to see the ground) or at night over unlighted areas in mountainous country, planes must fly at least 2000 feet above the highest point on the route. The previous limit was 1000 feet.

When flying in clear daytime weather, the minimum margin must be 1000 instead of 500 feet.

that he would not be a candidate for renomination this year. Clark, who is serving his tenth term, said he planned to resume the practice of law in Fayetteville.

Laughlin, Physician Cleared by Jury

LAUGHLIN—From Pg. 1 Any reasonable jury should convict these two men . . .

Mrs. Hobbs had contended that on March 20 she was convalescing at the home of Mrs. Irma Petrain, 2215 H st. n.w., from effects of an illegal operation performed by Dr. Peckham in his office, 428 8th st. s.e., the preceding night.

Citing testimony of defense witnesses that Mrs. Hobbs wrote a letter in Laughlin's office on March 20 to the effect that she was going home (Pittsboro, N. C., 314 miles from Washington) and Dr. Peckham's testimony that he had treated the woman March 23 for imminent miscarriage, Laws observed:

" . . . If she (Mrs. Hobbs) left his (Laughlin's) office at 6:30 p. m. (as had been testified) on a trip to North Carolina . . . that if an abortion had been performed it would have had to occur March 21 or March 22. That gives rise to the question—did she go to North Carolina—did she go to some other place?—was an abortion performed?—where and by whom?—does the letter of March 20 indicate she did leave for North Carolina?"

The prosecution had asserted that Mrs. Hobbs was indeed in Laughlin's office on or about 6:30 p. m. March 20 but claimed she was there to meet Laughlin, who it was claimed took her to Mrs. Petrain's, from which address she was allegedly driven to Dr. Peckham's, where a first attempt at abortion was said to have taken place.

Admitted Treating Woman

Two days after the first attempt at abortion, the Government contended, Dr. Peckham visited Mrs. Hobbs at the Petrain address and there completed a successful illegal operation.

The physician admitted treating Mrs. Hobbs at Mrs. Petrain's on Sunday, March 23, but said he did so merely to aid a strange woman who was suffering with an imminent miscarriage.

Both Laughlin and Dr. Peckham had produced alibi witnesses who testified that the accused men were elsewhere on dates mentioned by Government witnesses.

But the crux of the situation lay in the two letters allegedly written by Mrs. Hobbs on March 20 and May 16. Laws regarded them as so important that he had them impounded by the United States marshal to avoid any possibility of loss or tampering.

Experts Differ on Signature

The prosecution maintained the letters were forgeries. It produced a handwriting expert who testified he could not say whether the signatures were genuine or false. He did say, however, that "abnormal similarities" between them gave rise to "suspicion."

On the other hand the defense produced four experts who testified that the signatures were genuine.

The prosecution, aiming at establishing suspicious circumstances, showed that Mrs. Hobbs had signed her name to several legal papers, on onskins, May 15, in Laughlin's office.

Laws Comments on Letters

Commenting on the fraud charges, Laws told the jury: "If you believe the letters are forgeries in an effort to deceive you . . . they are strong evidences of guilt against Mr. Laughlin."

Laws further instructed the jury that, because Laughlin and Dr. Peckham are linked in both charges of the two-count indictment, it could not "reasonably" find one innocent and the other guilty.

D. C. Bar Polled on Choice of Tamm as Judge

meet that night to consider the District Court vacancy.

McNeill's Letter Too Late

McNeill said he then sent a letter to Attorney General Tom C. Clark requesting him to postpone any nomination until the bar association could submit recommendations.

McNeill said he learned of Tamm's nomination from newspapers Monday afternoon.

Clark said yesterday that he has not received a letter from McNeill. He said while he always welcomes suggestions from the bar association there is no rule or agreement that he must wait until it does make recommendations. Of Tamm, the Attorney General said: "He has an impartial mind and an impartial background. This was not a political appointment and Mr. Tamm has no partisanship. He has proven to be a very competent man and has received both his legal training and experience here.

Clark Explains Career

"As for this matter of Tamm having been admitted 'on motion' to the Minnesota bar," said Clark, "you must remember that Tamm was no schoolboy. He was a graduate of Georgetown University Law School which turns out lawyers as fine as any in the country."

"Last year, after Tamm applied for admission to the District Court committee on admissions and grievances, notified him to come over.

"The committee examined him for an hour and a half. A few minutes later they advised him he had made the best possible presentation to show his legal qualification but that he could not become eligible to be a member of the District bar until July 6, 1948."

Others Not in D. C. Bar

The law does not stipulate that a District Court justice be a member of the District bar. At the present time, four District Court jurists, Justices F. Dickinson Letts, T. Alan Goldsborough, James W. Morris and Matthew F. McGuire, are not members of the District bar.

Tamm's nomination to the $15,000-a-year, lifetime place on the District Court bench was made possible by the elevation of Justice James M. Proctor to the United States Courts of Appeals. Justice Proctor was nominated to replace Appeals Court Justice Harold M. Stephens. The latter will succeed Chief Justice D. Lawrence Groner of the Court of Appeals who is retiring.

More Retirements Urged by Gen. Bliss

Surgeon General Says 10 to 20 Per Cent Of Officers Have Mental Disorders

By the United Press

Maj. Gen. R. W. Bliss, Army surgeon general, said yesterday that more, and not fewer, officers should be retired with lifetime tax-free disability pensions.

He told a House armed services subcommittee that from 10 to 20 per cent of the officers now in the Army have mental disorders and suffer from hardening of the arteries. He said they should be retired but that such ailments are "hard to pin down and cannot always be called permanent."

Bliss and Maj. Gen. John F. Dahlquist, Army personnel chief, defended the disability retirement system against charges that too many former officers of high rank have taken lucrative jobs in private industry although they have been classed as "disabled" by the Army and receive a fat tax-free pension.

"The" Officers Solution

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, retiring chief of staff, suggested a possible solution in a farewell speech to correspondents at a National Press Club luncheon.

He said he believed the law should be changed so that disability pensions would be "suspended" during the time a retired officer is drawing a big salary in private industry.

Dahlquist complained that the picture has been distorted; that such instances are rare rather than the rule.

"About 75 per cent of the officers who have retired for physical disability now are worse off financially than they would have been had they remained in service," he said.

Disability pay is computed on 75 per cent of an officer's base pay when he retired.

"Break" Disputed
Dahlquist also disputed a committee claim that regular officers get a better break on retirement than those in the reserve.

"As a matter of fact," he said, "the regulars were not given as much consideration for disability retirement as were the non-regulars."

They weren't given as much physical examination, either," snapped Chairman Charles H. Eilston (R., Ohio).

Representative Leroy Johnson (R., Calif.) asked Bliss why the Army discharged as unfit men who "only walk across the street and get identical jobs in private in-

FPC Divided on Controls of Gas Rates

By Dillard Stokes
Post Reporter

Two Federal Power Commissioners yesterday favored—and two more opposed—taking controls off natural gas rates.

Both sides filed statements with the Senate Commerce Subcommittee headed by Senator Moore (R., Okla.), which is holding hearings on the Ritzley bill to change the natural gas act.

FPC Chairman Nelson Lee Smith and Commissioner urged changing the basis on which the FPC has set gas rates for 10 years. FPC experts say this basis has cut 150 million dollars off the people's gas bills.

Commissioners Leland Olds and Claude L. Draper told the Senators that both the Smith-Wimberly plan and the Ritzley bill would cost gas users tens of millions of dollars a year.

Ed Falck, Washington gas engineer, testified that a study of prices in 36 cities showed that under the present system gas sells for much less than coal and oil.

The FPC controls all gas piped from one State to another. It has been setting rates on the basis of the cost of the gas. Senator Moore and Representative Ross Ritzley (R., Okla.) would end FPC control of gas production and make the price in the field the basis for rates. Ritzley's bill rode through the House in two hours one day last summer, but was stopped by a 7-to-

6 vote in the Senate Commerce Committee.

FPC Chairman Smith took the stand to urge the changes drawn up by himself and Wimberly. They would sharply cut down the power of the FPC, and would use the "reasonable commodity value" of gas as a base for rates.

Senator Myers (D., Pa.) asked whether the "reasonable commodity value" and "price in the field" were not about the same thing. It seemed that they were. Myers asked whether he had not once favored the present FPC method.

The chairman replied he has changed his mind.

Commissioner Olds told the Senators that he and Draper were against changing the gas laws. He said all the proposals to change were aimed to hamper protection of the public and leave in force those parts of the law which made the gas industry a monopoly. Whether the new rate base was field price or commodity value, Olds said, a change would take billions away from the public and give them to the gas companies.

Besides that, Olds said, the Ritz-ley and Smith Wimberly plans would open up our gas resources to waste, and they would be used up quickly in a rush for profits.

Leaps to Death
At Nuernberg

Nuernberg, Germany, Feb. 5 (U.P.)—Gen. Johannes Blaskowitz, 64, former German commander in chief in Holland, leaped to his death in Nuernberg prison today two hours before he was to stand trial for war crimes.

He stepped out of a line of prisoners returning from breakfast, climbed a 7-foot wire "suicide" barrier and jumped 30 feet to the concrete floor below.

Blaskowitz died of his injuries at an Army hospital.

He commanded the German Twenty-fifth Army in the Netherlands. He was captured on June 6, 1945.

A tank specialist, he engineered the break-through at Sedan, France, which was credited with causing the collapse of French resistance.

Blaskowitz directed defense of the Atlantic wall before D-Day.

His 15 codefendants—former German field marshalls, generals and an admiral—today heard the prosecution accuse them of "unlawful use of war" and slaughter of civilians.

Their trial is the twelfth and last of the Nuernberg war crimes cases.

Centered on Girl Visitor

Munich, Germany, Feb. 5 (U.P.)—German police tonight caught the attractive girl friend of former German-American Bund leader Fritz Kuhn, 51, who received a love letter at Dachau prison the day before he escaped, Tuesday.

The girl, who visited him at Dachau a short time ago, is 25, the age of Kuhn's daughter. She was not identified.

United States troops joined in the search for Kuhn when prosecutors at the Nuernberg war crimes trials said he was needed as a witness.

When the girl tried to visit Kuhn in Nuernberg jail several months ago, she said she was his fiancée. Prison officials told her Kuhn's wife had just visited him.

Kuhn was not known in Germany, so his escape created little stir.

Chilean Red Poet
Is Hunted by Police

Santiago, Chile, Feb. 5 (U.P.)—A police cordon was thrown around Santiago today to prevent the escape of former Senator Pablo Neruda, a Communist, whose arrest was ordered last night after the Supreme Court upheld cancellation of his Parliamentary immunity.

Neruda was impeached because of articles in Mexican and Venezuelan newspapers in which he accused President Gabriel Gonzalez Videla of selling out to "local reactionaries and foreign mining magnates."

Neruda is one of Chile's foremost poets.

Frontier Ban Lifted

Paris, Feb. 5 (U.P.)—The Franco-Spanish frontier will be reopened to travelers and commerce February 10, a diplomatic source said today. The frontier has been closed since February, 1946.

Briton Tells How 'Desert Fox'
Took Bait in El Alamein Trap

London, Feb. 5 (U.P.)—Lord Alexander today disclosed the wartime secret of how he fooled Field Marshal Erwin Rommel in the African battle of El Alamein.

The battle began on October 23, 1942, and started an Allied offensive that swept the "Desert Fox" and his Afrika Korps out of North Africa.

Alexander, British Middle East commander, told the story in a 60,000-word War Office dispatch released tonight.

He said the front in August 1942 was like a door hinged at the sea at El Alamein and extending into the desert. It was decided to strike at the hinge while deceiving the Germans.

Alexander said more than 700 tanks were camouflaged to hide real concentrations. Dummy tanks were placed to indicate concentrations far south of El Alamein.

A dummy pipeline of old gasoline drums was built into the desert toward the south. Dummy fuel reservoirs, pumping stations and supply dumps were established. Fake messages were broadcast.

The deception forced Rommel to distribute his armor all along the line. Even when the offensive was launched, Rommel was afraid to commit his forces for fear the real attack would yet come to the south.

Couple in Recital

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Ewart, Australian singers, will give a recital today at 8:15 p. m. at Woodside Methodist Church, 8814 Georgia ave., Silver Spring.

Ex-City Head Backs Rule Bill

kind of manager would not want to stay 10 seconds after he had lost the confidence of the council. Favors "Negative" Method Representative James C. Auchincloss (R., N. J.) co-sponsor of the home-rule bill, asked Brownlow if he thought it would be constitutional to have Congress legislate for the District by the "negative" method of veto control or if "positive" action would be better.
"I favor the negative system because it would result in more positive action," replied Brownlow—and there was a pause.
"Now you've got me mixed up," said Auchincloss.
Brownlow then explained he was thinking of the successful use of a legislative veto in enacting rules of Federal Court procedure, and

Three WINX Programs To Report on Hearing

Three programs will be carried by WINX today on the congressional committee hearing on the Auchincloss home rule bill. From 12:45 to 1 p. m. and from 8:05 to 8:30 p. m., WINX will broadcast recorded excerpts from the hearing. At 7:55 p. m., Mrs. Harold Elsten will discuss highlights of the day's hearings.

In the reorganization of Federal agencies, he said it was an excellent method to use for the District.

On another question, Brownlow said "it would not be a good idea" to have a representative of the President and of Congress vote as members of the elected city council. He said it would be all right for such representatives to sit in without voting.

Assaults Plan Opponents

In attacking opponents of home rule, Armstrong charged that one group is composed of persons "few in number, but powerful in influence, whose self-interests are best served by a continuance of the present system of selecting municipal officers by appointment." "Some of these persons hold positions in the local or national government which would be abolished or reduced in importance should this bill become law. Others have business or financial interests which they believe fare better under the present system than they would under a local government elected by and responsible to the people."

Armstrong said business and financial interests had been primarily responsible for doing away with the old District self-government setup in 1874. "The smugly satisfied beneficiaries of the present system of unrepresentative local government," he said, "the report of the Auchincloss subcommittee came as a great shock."

Cites Fear of Negroes

That report, he said, "shows up the present local government for what it is—an outmoded, crazy-quilt, pattern of divided authority, lack of responsibility and duplication of services."

Armstrong said that a second group of opponents to home rule "lack faith in the American form of government. They give lip service to democracy, but are fearful of assuming the burdens of citizenship. They would rather be ruled by the 'best people' than take their part in the government."

"Few of the persons in this group will have the effrontery to advance publicly their real objection: prejudice against exercise of the franchise by the Negro."

"We are confident that once a popularly elected local government is established here all but a few of the residents of the District will perform their civic duty of participating intelligently in local elections. We have no fear of the dire consequences predicted by members of the second group. President Connaughton testified that the Federation of Citizens Associations had endorsed the principle of the bill, "and I do not feel it ought to be emasculated with too many amendments. I think it's a good bill in its present form."

"In my opinion, the bill is entirely constitutional. The council form is excellent. The council ought to be entirely elected. The Federal Government would be adequately protected by congressional control."

Representative Charles B. Deane (D., N. C.) asked what would be the citizens' reaction if the bill resulted in higher taxes here.

"Reaction is always negative to increased taxes," said Connaughton. "Taxation is a necessary evil which we all resent. But if home rule brings some increase for necessary expenses, I think the people would be willing to pay for the privilege of self-government. I can't envision that the cost would be more. I think the cost would be less."

Deane also asked about chances for minority control of a home-rule government.

"I don't have any apprehension in that regard," said Connaughton. "If the people of the District permit that, it would be their fault. It would be mismanagement of their franchise."

Navy to Build Aircraft Carrier Displacing 60-to-80,000 Tons

speed than present American craft, as to submarines and antisubmarine craft, Sullivan said. "We must develop an ability to cope with other powers' high-speed submarines he added, and tactics cannot be developed without having both types in operation, training constantly together."

The Kentucky originally was laid down as a battleship and the Hawaii as a battle cruiser. Construction of the craft was halted for months awaiting the development of guided missiles, started again and then suspended indefinitely, Sullivan said.

Both craft will be maintained "as it" at Navy yards for the present. When the development of guided missiles advances further, Congress may be asked to vote funds to complete the craft, it was said.

Conversions Planned

Sullivan said the cost of completing the Kentucky and Hawaii would total 308 millions. Congress will be asked to vote 230 millions of this to build the six new warships and to convert three existing vessels to new types.

One of the latter will be a 27,000-ton Essex-type aircraft carrier, which will be modernized to handle larger and heavier airplanes. Sullivan indicated that alterations will include strengthening of the flat-top's flight deck, enlargement of elevators which bring planes up from the hangar deck, and installation of more powerful catapults for launching planes.

In planning for heavier, longer-range carrier planes, the Navy has no intention of competing with the Air Force in the field of strategic bombing, Sullivan said. The craft are for other purposes, he added.

Many Air Force men have been protesting against the Navy's proposed new carrier on these grounds. In an effort to allay these fears, Sullivan said:

"No one in the Navy ever assumed we could take over mass, strategic bombing from the Air Force."

The other two conversions will involve modifications of existing submarines to give them greater submerged speed and permit them to stay underwater for long periods.

One of the new submarines, Sullivan said, will be a submarine tanker. Germany had such craft, known as "milk cows."

Sullivan stressed that the Navy is not planning any extensive shipbuilding, only a "prototype program."

"What we seek," he declared, "is to develop new types of vessels. We want to build only a few to carry on experiments so if we get into trouble again we can go into production from these trial models."

This is particularly important.

Small, lean, short, shank pork shoulder that you can serve as a thrifty main course this week. Roasted pork is always popular and Safeway's thrifty low price offers an exceptional opportunity to save on your meat bill.

Fresh Picnic 1 cup brown sugar
Salt and pepper 2 teaspoon mustard
Whole cloves

Lay the picnic fat side up on a rack in an open roasting pan. Sprinkle cut surface with salt and pepper. Make incision and insert meat thermometer so that center of bulb reaches center of thickest part. (Bulb should not rest on fat or bone.) Place picnic uncovered, in moderate oven (350°F.) and roast until done. It will be done when thermometer registers 185° F. Allow about 30 min. per pound for roasting. When almost done, remove from oven, and take off rind (if not already removed). Score fat in diagonal lines, stick with whole cloves, rub surface with brown sugar-mustard mixture. Return to oven to finish roasting and to brown. Serve 3 to the pound.

Australian Named 14th Director of World Bank, Fund

Stuart Gordon McFarlane of Australia will be the fourteenth director for the World Bank and World Monetary Fund.

The two institutions announced yesterday that McFarlane has been elected to a newly created directorship by Australia, Syria and Lebanon, all of which have joined the bank and fund in recent months. McFarlane will cast the votes of all three countries at bank and fund meetings.

Since 1938, McFarlane has been secretary to the Commonwealth of Australia treasury and a member of the advisory council of the Commonwealth Bank since 1945.

Now's the time to Serve MORE FISH

Here's the Way to Prepare It...

Use your favorite fish fillets or steaks. Remember, fish lends itself particularly to frying. If the fish you select comes in large pieces, cut diagonally...about a fifth of a pound makes an average serving.

Rinse in water, cover with Golden Dip. Shake off the loose particles and fry in deep fat, or pan fry until crisp and golden brown.

Golden Dip is the complete breading mixture, containing milk, eggs and seasoning. It seals out the frying fats and seals in the delicate flavor.

Students Riot in Baghdad...

IRKED IN IRAQ—Waving sticks, rioting Iraq students mass in the streets of Baghdad to protest the signing of the British-Iraq pact at Portsmouth, England. The treaty would give British troops the right to enter Iraq in the event of war. It has not yet been ratified.

British Unions Plan Study of Wage Freeze

London, Feb. 5 (NYHT).—The Trades Union Congress, somewhat stunned by yesterday's voluntary wage freezes pronouncement by the Labor Government, decided today to seek "consultations with the prime minister" before supporting the new policy.

For five hours, a special TUC economic committee talked over the declaration by Prime Minister Attlee that there should be no further wage increases except in cases of national interest.

A statement said the committee was in general agreement "with the declared aim of the government's policy to avoid inflation."

2 Officials Fired Soviet Bans Marriages With Aliens

Moscow, Feb. 5 (AP).—The dismissal of two high government officials, including Minister of Justice N. M. Rykhov, and a ban on marriages between Russians and foreigners were approved by the Supreme Soviet—the Russian Parliament—at its final session last night.

The 1948 budget also was approved as were measures abolishing the death penalty, and prescribing more severe punishment for divulging state secrets.

Rykhov, named Justice Minister in 1946, was dismissed because he "has not coped with his work." His ministry has been criticized for not proceeding more efficiently against laxity in housing, and in graft cases.

M. B. Khrushchov, chairman of the Arts Committee of the government, was removed because he did not provide "correct direction of the arts committee," which also had been criticized in the Soviet press.

The approved budget calls for expenditures of 388 billion rubles against revenue of 429 billion rubles.

The ruble is officially worth five to $1 and has a diplomatic rate of eight to $1.

Finance Minister A. G. Zverev warned the budget was "strained" by the recent revaluation of the ruble and lowering of prices, which cut down profits—and thus state revenue—by 57 billion rubles.

France Hits Atom Control Plan of Soviet

Lake Success, L. I., Feb. 5 (NYHT).—Francis de Rose, of France, challenged the basic concept in present Soviet proposals for world atomic control today—the idea of periodic inspection by international inspectors.

Such intermittent inspection, he said, would fail to provide effective control in extracting raw materials and processing atomic fuels.

The United States and the commission majority insist on international operation of dangerous activities as well as inspection.

De Rose asked Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko in the U.N. atomic working committee whether the Soviet-sponsored international inspectors could enter any participating country "without first obtaining the agreement of that country." This went unanswered.

Are you reading "Mary Haworth's Mail"? It's Washington's favorite column on personal problems.

Chinese Reds' Drive Perils All Manchuria

Shanghai, Feb. 5 (AP).—Savage fighting was reported south of Mukden today as Chinese Communist troops stormed into Liaoyang on the Dairen-Mukden railroad and attacked towns on the Peiping-Mukden line virtually to isolate the Manchurian capital.

Government officials in Nanking, admitting the situation was critical, said the fate of all Manchuria might hinge on the outcome of the Communist offensive.

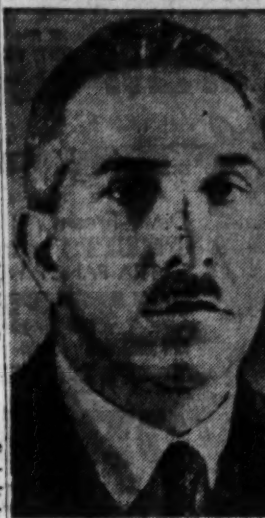

Nationalist reinforcements were delayed by snow.

U. N. to Defer Talks On Rights Covenant

Lake Success, Feb. 5 (AP).—The United Nations Economic and Social Council today agreed to defer discussion on proposed drafts for an international covenant on human rights, and measures necessary to put both in effect. These will be taken up later this year.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, chairman of the U. N. Commission on Human Rights. Presented its report to the council almost without comment.

Reported Leader Of Arab Warriors

Associated Press Wirephoto
GEN. TAHA HASHIMI, former Iraqi premier, has been named chief of the Arab volunteer armies formed to fight Jews in Palestine, it was reported yesterday following a meeting of Arab tribal leaders in Damascus.

U. N. Is Told Of Arab Raids In Palestine

Lake Success, N. Y., Feb. 5 (AP).—Britain informed the United Nations tonight that four bands of men—presumably Arabs—have invaded Palestine in recent weeks.

The official report to the U. N. Palestine Commission, laid the legal groundwork for claims that Arabs are threatening the peace and must be met by an international force.

British Delegate Fletcher Cooke reported 300 invaders established themselves in Galilee; 700 Syrians entered Palestine January 20-21 via Transjordan; about 950 armed members of the "Arab Liberation Army" entered Palestine January 29-30; and a group of marauders from outside Palestine clashed with security forces recently at Kfar Sazid.

16 Persons Killed In Palestine Violence

Jerusalem, Feb. 5 (AP).—Sixteen persons were killed today in Palestine.

An unofficial tabulation showed 1071 persons have been killed since the United Nations decided November 29 to partition the Holy Land.

It was reported that Gen. Taha Hashimi, former premier of Iraq, had been named commander-in-chief of the Arab volunteer armies formed to fight Palestine Jews.

Zonal Troops May Help in Food Seizure

Berlin, Feb. 5 (NYHT).—American and British troops will be used upon request from German authorities to help collect food from farmers, it was disclosed here today.

Gen. Sir Brian K. Robertson, British military governor, said stern measures would have to be taken to increase food collections and he is "prepared upon request from German authorities to lend British troops to help in collection of food." However, he feels German authorities have sufficient police available to make use of troops unnecessary.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American military governor, later confirmed American willingness to furnish troops.

More Strikes Predicted In Western Germany

Frankfurt, Feb. 5 (NYHT).—A prediction that more strikes will continue to paralyze the slowly reviving economy of western Germany was made here today by the Anglo-American bipartite agency which controls Bizonia.

Its chairman, Maj. Gen. Clarence L. Adcock of the United States and Lieut. Gen. Sir Gordon McReady of Britain, admitted Allied troops might have to help collect local food supplies.

The chairman said "the present ration (a maximum of 1400 calories daily in Bizonia) is totally inadequate."

[The Associated Press said the military government had assured Germans all dollars earned by German exports will be used to purchase needed raw materials and none to pay for food which the United States and Britain are shipping into Germany.]

Midgits Are Divorced Over Bath Issue

Hackensack, N. J., Feb. 5 (AP).—Tiny Doris J. Snyder had her divorce today from her midgit husband, George, after complaining to the court that he refused to take a bath.

The 4-foot 10-inch, 26-year-old woman, who described her husband as 12 years older, 5 inches shorter and 50 pounds heavier than herself, said he once refused to bathe from July to September.

France Set On Monetary Reform Plan

Paris, Feb. 5 (NYHT).—Rene Mayer, French minister of finance, proclaimed tonight the French monetary reform program was complete.

"Now," he said, "the state must cut its expenses and the French people must boost the national production," for recovery.

The government distributed a circular today which apparently warned French officials to stop giving Gen. Charles de Gaulle the military greetings usually accorded him as a war hero.

The circular was issued in advance of De Gaulle's scheduled speech at Versailles Sunday, the United Press said.

It reminded officials the law limits military occasions. It also warned that representatives of the people are not supposed to take part in political ceremonies, especially those in which "the government is attacked."

[The Associated Press said Communists asked French workers to participate in demonstrations Sunday against the government's monetary measures.]

'Hotfoot' Costs $2500

Paterson, N. J., Feb. 5 (AP).—A jury today awarded $2500 to Richard Kiener, 46, for third-degree burns from a "hotfoot." He asked $15,000 from Richard Grimes, who allegedly placed a match in Kiener's shoe and lighted it while Kiener was dozing.

Real 'homemade' flavor.

AFL Offer Turned Down By Wheeler

Miami, Fla., Feb. 5 (AP).—Former Senator Burton K. Wheeler today declined an American Federation of Labor offer to lead its fight against the Taft-Hartley law.

Pleading pressure of his law business, Wheeler said he could not accept the post of director of the AFL's Labor League for Political Education offered to him Sunday night.

According to a group of AFL leaders who led a revolt against the Wheeler "appointment," the Montana Democrat talked himself out of the $20,000-a-year job Tuesday night when he said he did not believe that all Congressmen who voted for the Taft-Hartley Act should be opposed at the polls next November. The AFL executive council, in its annual meeting here which ended this week, had stated repeatedly that all supporters of the law were "enemies of labor."

After conferences with AFL leaders immediately after his arrival from Washington last night, and a special meeting today, Wheeler announced he was "deeply honored" by the offer and declined "with great reluctance."

He said he believed the AFL was "making a truly important contribution to better government" in creating the league, which will be the AFL counterpart of the CIO's political action committee.

He offered to serve as an "advisory consultant" without charge. AFL president William Green said the administrative committee of the new league would attempt to select another director at a meeting tonight. He declined to name the candidates but AFL sources indicated Andrew Bie-miller, former new deal congressman from Milwaukee, Wis., was mentioned prominently in the discussions.

The Senate District Committee will hold a hearing at 10 a. m. today on the President's nomination of Frank Hammett Myers, Washington attorney, to the District Municipal Court.

Russian Production Up

Lake Success, Feb. 5 (AP).—Russia was reported today to have informed the United Nations that Soviet economic production is back to prewar levels. U. N. officials said this was the first time Russia had supplied the U. N. with production data of any kind.

Wright Will Let England Keep Plane Smithsonian Once Snubbed

Dayton, Ohio, Feb. 5 (AP).—The Wright airplane—first to carry man in the air—44 years ago—stays in England.

Orville Wright never changed his will to bring back the little flying kite that he and his brother, Wilbur, built and flew at Kitty Hawk in 1903 for the first airplane flight by man.

He sent it to the Science Museum at Kensington in 1928 because the Smithsonian Institution put a card on the Langley aerodrome calling it "the first man-carrying airplane in the history of the world capable of sustained free flight."

WILL IS PROBABLY
In 1943 Dr. Charles G. Abbott, head of the Institution, apologized and acknowledged the Wright plane to be the first. Wright then promised to have the ship returned. Wright died last Friday with the plane still in England.

His will, dated June 21, 1937, and never changed, was admitted to probate today and showed he had given the plane to the Science Museum.

Wright stipulated at the time he sent the plane to England it should be kept there for at least five years and if not returned during his lifetime, it was never to be returned.

His consent to bring it back after the Smithsonian changed its policy was disclosed by the late President Roosevelt's testimonial message to a Washington dinner celebrating the fortieth anniversary of the Wright flight in 1943.

Roosevelt Mistaken
"That quaint and fragile machine," the President said, "should be enshrined in the Smithsonian Institution for all time and I am glad to be able to tell you that Orville Wright is going to bring the Kitty Hawk plane back from England. The nation will welcome it back as the outstanding symbol of American genius."

(Wright's will also provided that his scientific papers should go to any institution selected by his ex-

The remainder will go to several nieces and nephews.)

Injuries to 3 Children Lead to Transit Suit

A $29,000 suit for injuries to his three children was filed by John U. Davis of 20 Myrtle st. ne., against the Capital Transit Co. in District Court yesterday. The children were struck by a streetcar in the 1500 block of 7th st. n.w. in February, 1945, according to the allegations.

Gallup Poll Finds 7 Out of 10 Want Firms Of America to Discontinue Selling to Reds

By George Gallup
Princeton, N. J., Feb. 5.—Land-lease shipments to Russia by the American Government are opposed by a large majority of American voters. Popular coolness toward the Soviets has also reached the point where even the sale of products by private American business firms to Russia is questioned by the majority.

Soviet Ambassador Alexander Panyushkin recently complained that "American trade regulating agencies" are discriminating against trade to his country. A survey completed by the American Institute of Public Opinion (The Gallup Poll) just before the Ambassador stated his case shows that 7 out of 10 American voters want business firms in this country to stop shipments to Russia at once. Five of the seven hold very strong views on the subject.

Public sentiment on commercial relations with the Soviet is almost identical with opinion on official United States Government exports as reported by the Institute early last December.

A representative cross-section of voters throughout the country was asked this question:

American business firms are now selling oil, machinery, and industrial products to Russia. Do you think business firms should stop selling these things to Russia—or should they continue to sell these things to her?

The national averages:
Stop selling ..... 72%
Continue selling ..... 15
No opinion ..... 10
Qualified ..... 3

A separate but comparable cross-section of voters was asked a question concerning strictly lend-lease shipments as follows:

The United States Government has been sending oil, machinery and industrial products to Russia under our lend-lease program. Do you think the Government should stop sending these things to Russia—or should it continue to send these things to her?

Stop ..... 83%
Continue selling ..... 8
No opinion ..... 6
Qualified ..... 3

The principal qualifications in both cases are: "Send smaller amounts," "yes, if necessary," "yes, if it won't hurt our economy." Business and professional voters interviewed are less strongly opposed to American-Soviet private trade than manual workers, which is in odd contrast to Russian epithets about United States capitalists. The following table shows the vote by occupation groups on the question of trade with Russia by private American firms.

| Occupation           | Con.       | No Qual. |
|----------------------|------------|----------|
| Farmers              | 76 9 13    | 2        |
| White collar workers | 71 20 6    | 3        |
| Manual workers       | 73 12 12   | 3        |

The question of to what extent American goods should be sold to the Russians has been raised several times during congressional hearings on the European Recovery Program (the Marshall Plan).

While testifying in support of ERP last week, Philip Reed, chairman of the General Electric Corporation, declared that G. E. was sending now only general-purpose goods under old contracts. He said no new contracts are anticipated after current orders are filled. In Washington it is reported that the munitions board has set up a foreign trade section whose purpose will be to screen foreign shipments to make sure material does not go abroad that is needed for defense or that could aid a possible enemy nation.

8000 Orchids Flourish Here In 70° Warmth

For a trip to the foot of Capitol Hill and no money at all, you can get a whiff and a look at tropical delights enough to defrost an eskimo.

William B. Hansen, who grows the orchids at the Botanic Gardens, revealed yesterday that he has more than 8000 plants just waiting to be seen. And the temperature in the greenhouse is a pleasant 70 degrees.

He extended a welcome to all comers—chilled or otherwise, from 9 to 4 daily, including Sunday.

The plants, native to the warmer climes of Africa, India, China, Burma and South America, run to all colors—save black, Hansen said. And many have a pungent smell, some spicy like cinnamon, others like chocolate candy.

The gardens hold 650 varieties all told, ranging in size from a quarter of an inch to 7 inches for some species.

Cowpokes End Cross-Country Ride; Find D. C. 'Fenced In'

Two cowpokes arrived in Washington yesterday after a 3500-mile cross-country horseback ride and started to work.

Snowy mountain passes, bears in the brush and hallstorms they could take in their stride, but they didn't want to face a lot of school kids between here and "thar" on their way back and say they'd missed out seeing the Chief Executive.

It had seemed easy to Ned Kennedy, 61, operator, and Cecil Cary, 31, foreman of the Horse-and-a-Half Ranch near Tacoma, Wash., as they loped across the country on a vacation trip that began May 19, 1947, but Washington suddenly looked very big and imposing, and the White House through the picket fence very far away.

Set Precedent
Their trip, they believe the first cross-country trip ever made on the same mounts, came about when Kennedy sold the cattle off the ranch.

"I felt like doing something that everybody else hadn't done, and I wanted a vacation," says Kennedy, "and besides if we didn't do this, Ceece would have had to go to work."

Ceece grinned at that. Born on a Texas ranch, he went "to California at the age of 14 to get an education and haven't learned anything since."

How Ranch Was Named
Kennedy, a native of Duluth, Minn., said he bought his ranch 10 years ago. "It had two horses, and half of one was owned by some fellow who never did show up, so I called it the 'Horse and a Half Ranch.'"

They made their trip with a horse apiece and a pack horse. Sometimes they slept under the stars in their sleeping bags and sometimes with friendly farmers or "horse" people, and not infrequently stopped off to spend a night with a local Elks club.

En route they would take motion pictures and talk to the children in the schools along the road. "I write to 250 of them now," says Kennedy, "and that's what's worrying me. They are going to want to know about the President."

Girls Trip in Leap Year

Chicago, Feb. 5 (AP)—Eligible girls appear to have stumbled a bit this leap year in snaring the Nation's bachelors, a survey indicated today.

Clerks in 13 of 14 representative cities said marriage licenses issued last month had fallen off from January, 1947.

Kansas City, Mo., the only city to report an increase said more than twice as many marriage licenses were issued as in January last year.

In Washington, the number of licenses dropped from 1005 in January last year to 916 last month.

The high cost of living, the housing shortage, an exodus of Government employees caused the decline, license clerks believed.

Elkton, Md., showed a decline from 941 licenses in January last year to 798 last month. A court aide said fewer marriages involving service personnel accounted for most of the decrease.

Lower Phone Rates Ordered in Georgia

Atlanta, Feb. 5 (AP)—A three-judge court today ordered lower telephone rates into effect in Georgia by dissolving an injunction obtained by the Southern Bell Telephone Co. against rates prescribed by the Georgia Public Service Commission.

Walter McDonald, chairman of the commission, said increases approximating $1,500,000 recommended by the commission will stand, instead of an increase of about four million dollars obtained by the company in a court order.

You'll meet, for instance, 35 specialists in meat—who, each shopping day of the year, hand six tons of meat over the counter. These specialists sell meats, and only meats—and consequently they know the meats backwards and forwards. At whatever hour of the day you enter Center Market City, you may choose from dozens of different varieties and cuts of meats—select cuts or economy cuts—tasty, wholesome meats for every purpose and every purse.

Along Poultry Row, you'll meet a score of specialists who sell everything with wings. This is truly Poultry Heaven, where "fowl" becomes a word of tenderness and savory deliciousness.

Many of these specialists have devoted a lifetime to the science of selecting good foods; some have served generation after generation of Washingtonians; all of them, as owners of their own businesses, have a common goal:—To make certain that—

First Returns in Irish Vote Indicate De Valera Is Losing

Dublin, Eire, Feb. 5 (AP).—First returns from yesterday's national election indicated today the government party would not get a majority in the new Dail (parliament) and Prime Minister Eamon de Valera would have to give way to a coalition premier after 16 years in power.

The weak showing of Sean MacBride's neophyte Republican party, Clann Na Poblachta, surprised observers.

MacBride rose led de Valera to call yesterday's election as a test of strength. Observers predicted de Valera's Fianna Fail party would get 65 seats, nine short of 74 needed for a majority.

Final results are expected Saturday.

The Government Party so far won 27 seats; Fine Gael, traditional opposition party, 11; MacBride's Clann Na Poblachta, 4; Labor, 6 and the Independents, 3; Farmers, 1.

Early returns in Donegal South and four Dublin constituencies gave de Valera's party 78,311 of 183,318 first preference votes counted. Fine Gael polled 51,242 and Clann Na Poblachta, 32,599.

MacBride led the poll in Dublin Southwest and was assured of election. De Valera was reelected in County Clare, 12,574 to 4,588.

Court Action Planned Against Md. Builders

Baltimore, Feb. 5 (AP).—United States District Attorney Bernard J. Flynn said today he hopes soon to have the law on house builders who cheated GI buyers.

"I discussed the matter with the Attorney General in Washington last week and it is now under study for the proper action to be taken," Flynn said.

More than 2000 veterans have filed complaints that builders used inferior materials and didn't comply with contract specifications.

Guerilla Base Reported in Albania

Athens, Greece, Feb. 5 (AP).—Twenty-eight captured guerrillas told authorities today that headquarters of the rebel government of Gen. Markos Vafades are now located at Permeti, Albania, press dispatches said today.

Permeti is in south-central Albania, about 20 miles northwest of the Greek city of Konitsa.

Italy Orders Crackdown on Aliens, Reds

Rome, Feb. 5 (AP).—Italy, facing crucial national elections April 18, cracked down on activities of aliens and Communists today.

The cabinet decreed prison terms and fines for "all those who give shelter or employment to aliens or persons without citizenship status." The decree called for double the usual penalties up to June 30.

[The cabinet also approved in principle an order outlawing all semimilitary political organizations and the wearing of uniforms by private "armies," the United Press said.]

(Communist Partisan Leader Luigi Longo appealed directly to President Enrico de Nicola against any attempt to penalize the wearing of uniforms. Communist Party Leader Palmiro Togliatti asserted such a ban would be unconstitutional. Interior Minister Mario Scelba said "no organization which intends to operate legally need fear the new measures.")

150 Are Seized In Roundup by Bombay Police

Bombay, India, Feb. 5 (AP).—Using gangbuster tactics, Bombay police rounded up at least 150 persons today in a probe of anti-Gandhi activities.

Friends said Bansilal Parnalal Pitti, millionaire businessman, and K. S. Mhaskar, a leading surgeon, were being held.

Police Commissioner J. S. Bhargava said Vinayak Damodhar Savarkar, 66, Hindu Mahasabha party leader, was arrested, along with Jannadas M. Mehta, former Bombay mayor.

Published reports said between 300 and 700 persons were arrested but a police communiqué said only 150 had been rounded up and all but 40 were released.

Virtually the entire Bombay leadership of Mahasabha and the RSS (Rashtriya Swayam Sevak Sangh), militant Hindu organizations was sought.

Bhargava said Narayan Vinayak Godse, held as Gandhi's assassin, had implicated eight persons in the anti-Gandhi plot and six already had been arrested.

Many arrests were made in Madras and New Delhi.

Vepco Foremen Seen Outside Act

Richmond, Va., Feb. 5 (AP).—Virginia Electric and Power Co. foremen are not subject to terms of the Virginia Public Utility Labor Relations Act, but this doesn't eliminate State intervention in the event of a foremen's strike, Governor Tuck said, in effect, today.
 The Governor's opinion was expressed in a letter to J. C. McIntosh, international representative of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (AFL), of which the foremen are members. McIntosh had asked whether or not foremen were exempt from the State's labor law.
 Negotiations for a new contract by the foremen broke down last week when Vepco contended the Taft-Hartley Act outlaws labor contracts with foremen.

Baird Blasts At Artificial Bank Curbs

By S. Oliver Goodman

Banks again are being subjected to artificial restraints and put in a position where they cannot exercise freely the functions for which they are designed, according to Bruce Baird, president of the National Savings and Trust Co.

In his annual report to stockholders, Baird, stated in part: "The Federal Reserve has not accomplished its purpose in restricting the available supply of money for commercial purposes as the banks will be reluctant to increase their loans and lines of credit if a sale of Government bonds at depreciated value will be necessary to keep reserves up to the standard required. The immediate effect will be a tightening of credit, the creation of a lender's market (which we have not known for years) and a stiffening of interest rates."

Baird's report showed that the company had net operating income of $331,905 for 1947, slightly less than the $346,672 in the previous year. Undivided profits were increased $71,111 after setting aside $75,434 as a reserve for bad debts, other charge-offs, and payment of regular dividends.

Nonoperating earnings totaled $17,387 for the year, as compared with $119,148 in 1946.

Total loans were $14,000,449, a gain of 42.65 per cent for the year.

The above figures are from a preliminary report, subject to audit and adjustment.

Veterans' Allowances

Unquestionably Congress was justified Tuesday in boosting the subsistence allowances of veterans attending college on the GI Bill of Rights. The new sums approved by Congress are $75 monthly for single veterans, $105 for married veterans with one dependent, and $120 for those with two or more dependents. These contrast with the previous allotments of $65 for single veterans and $90 for married students regardless of the number of dependents.

We have not altered our conviction that Congress did not intend, in voting the lavish free education benefits of the GI Bill of Rights, to relieve veterans in college from all necessity of contributing to their own support. However, the situation had become such that many veterans with families were being forced to do so much outside work to earn a bare living that they could not give proper attention to their studies. Hence the matter for Congress to decide was whether, considering the great rise in living costs, the old allowances were defeating the purposes of the GI Bill. We believe that they were.

The same may be said of the on-the-job training ceilings which the House voted to increase. Under present provisions, a veteran taking such training is permitted to receive benefits of $65 and $90, respectively, up to total monthly income maximums of $175 for single persons and $200 for married. Congress set these ceilings to shut out the moochers who previously had contended they were "training" even though they were making in some cases $600 and $700 a month. We believe that such ceilings are unrealistic in view of today's inflation. We wonder, however, whether the House has not erred on the side of generosity in upping the maximums to $250 for single trainees, $335 for those with one dependent and $350 for those with two or more dependents. It is more than possible that these sums may act as a deterrent to those veterans who are struggling to make a go of career jobs at smaller salaries. The Senate wisely, in our opinion, has declined to go along with the full amount of the House raises, and a compromise between the Senate maximum of $250 and the House maximum of $350 is now in conference.

While the increased costs connected with these adjustments are necessary, they do present an anomaly in light of the seeming congressional determination to lower taxes come hell or high water. At the very time the House was voting to cut taxes by six and a half billion dollars, for example, it approved a measure which would add several hundred million to Federal expenses. Implicit in the decision to raise veterans' allowances, we think, is an obligation for Congress to temper politics with sanity.

Page Mr. Griswold

The United States has the right, indeed it is under obligation to American taxpayers, to insist that countries aided by us shall compel their own citizens to contribute to the extent of their ability to financing the needs of their governments. In view of the stress laid on this sound principle of self-help, not only shipowners and maritime workers but all Americans will agree with President Curran of the National Maritime Union that steps should be taken to compel Greek shipowners living outside Greek territory to pay taxes to the Greek government.

Most of these shipowners, Mr. Curran told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, live in New York and do not pay taxes to any government. Yet they are piling up large dollar balances from their steadily expanding carrying trade. For example, the Maritime Commission's report on tonnage movements in the first half of 1947 shows that Greek vessels ranked third in order of importance as American trade carriers, with Panama flag ships in fourth place, whereas prior to the war Norway and the Netherlands were in third and fourth places, respectively, and Germany stood fifth. But that is only part of the story. Mr. Curran states that Greeks now own nearly half of the vessels flying the flag of Panama.

As a rule European nations do not scrap or lay up older or less efficient vessels. They are transferred to companies operating under the flags of countries offering competitive advantages in the form of substandard labor and safety conditions. Before the war the Greek flag provided the preferred coverage for old tonnage of this kind. Today Panama is taking the spotlight with the help of Greek capital. While the legitimate needs of European nations for sea transport cannot be disregarded, the United States should insist that the Greek shipping interests that benefit directly and indirectly from our European aid program shall not evade their obligation to contribute to the support of their own government.

Europe-First

General Eisenhower in a reference to the Marshall Plan yesterday gave powerful support to the "Europe-first" school. His comment was made as the State Department was getting ready to submit to Congress a massive plan to succor China. Aid to China, depend upon it, will not be extra to aid to Europe, in spite of the "deal" that is reputed to have been fixed up between Secretary Marshall and Senator Vandenberg. Already members of Congress are boggling over the total cost of the Marshall Plan. The issue, as in the case of interim aid, is bound to be resolved by the method of a lump sum covering all foreign assistance which will leave the European fund below what Secretary Marshall calls the "precision" level. This, at any rate, has been the approach of Senator Taft.

To divide is to fail. If this had been done in wartime the war against Hitler might have been lost. At any rate, the defeat of Hitler would have been long delayed, and Europe would have been beyond saving. It was elementary strategy first to crack the bigger and the more immediate problem. In the present operation the same rule is the soundest. Western Europe is the area of greatest danger to this Nation's security. It is the obliteration of the sovereignty of western Europe at which international communism is now aiming. And, finally, there is more chance of consolidating western Europe into a resistant and independent force and an ally against world despotism than of consolidating chaotic China.

These were the considerations in General Eisenhower's mind when he answered the question as to which area was America's immediate concern. He replied in terms of the national security. The countries on the opposite rim of the Atlantic are the countries whose independence is most precious to this country. Here are 250 million people accustomed to live in freedom, capable of sharing the burden of keeping the world in equilibrium, and used to filling the deficiencies of our domestic economy. The present struggle is the struggle of western civilization, and we need western Europe as a custodian. If western Europe is compelled to bow the knee to the Muscovite, then, as General Eisenhower puts it, the problem of our national security becomes "insoluble." There would be no option but a suspension of the Nation's liberties and the militarization of its society. No country, as the general said, can be an Atlas. It must have friends and allies, and those countries in western Europe are natural allies. When they have been put on their feet, when they have been resuscitated from a blow that was almost a knockout, our problem with Russia will be immensely lightened. The power-drunk leaders of the Kremlin know this. Otherwise, they would not be so ruthless in their campaign to insure failure of the Marshall Plan.

This is not to say that China should be neglected. The people of China deserve our sympathy and help, but a question of priority is involved. Some people think of America as a kind of Fortunio purse, in which all mankind can dip without injury to America. That this is untrue is shown by the three reports upon which the Marshall Plan is based. To help Europe on the scale that is contemplated is to impose great sacrifices upon Americans. And the American people, as the condition of that sacrifice, require reasonable assurance that aid will be effective—that, in Secretary Marshall's words at Harvard, aid will be a cure and not a palliative. They feel that "Operation Rat-hole" has been wound up, yet a division of aid would be a perpetuation of it.

Besides, China, in order to get Marshall Plan treatment, is required to show America a plan of self-help. This is what Europe has done, and the consolidation of western Europe, which has become (as General Eisenhower implied) a sine qua non of our own security, is proceeding apace. Negotiations have begun in Brussels to carry out the Bevin call for a western European union. If the United States fails to bring to this project all the support of which it is capable, then it will have failed to win the peace, and at the same time will have ignored the plain requirement of the national security that General Eisenhower invoked in his "Europe-first" statement. The best way of saving China is to save Europe first.

Distiller Cooperation

With governmental grain allocation powers left in default by the failure of Congress to act before January 31, the question as to whether the grain conservation program is to continue now is up to the distillers themselves. In this connection the Distilled Spirits Institute has shown a timely regard for the public interest by calling on its members, and later on the whole liquor industry, to observe the two and a half million bushels a month limitation set by the Secretary of Agriculture in January. This request was buttressed by the President's appeal to distillers last Saturday. Mr. Truman asked them to use no wheat, to restrict consumption of other grains, and to refrain from large purchases that would disturb the market. The fact that the Distilled Spirits Institute represents 65 per cent of the liquor manufacturers gives reason to hope that at least an important segment of the industry will cooperate with the President.

It is possible to applaud the institute's statement and still to disagree with its contention that the liquor manufacturers' contribution is only "psychological." While distillers ordinarily use little wheat, they do use corn and other grains that determine the amount of wheat available for export.

The five million bushels saved by allocations in January is hardly negligible, especially when the wheat export goal for the current season has been reduced by 50 million bushels because of congressional insistence on a larger carryover. It is true that grain used by distillers is not a total loss in that a portion ordinarily is processed later into livestock feed. However, feed of this kind is most often employed to fatten cattle beyond normal weight for marketing—a wasteful practice which the Department of Agriculture has sought to discourage during the grain emergency. One other contention of distillers—that grain is being exported to Canada for use by distilleries—deserves full investigation by the Administration. If this complaint is true, then a prompt agreement with Canada is called for.

Voluntary cooperation by American distillers assumes increased importance because of the inability of other commercial grain users so far to agree on a quota system. At the same time, Congress ought to recognize that the effect of this situation is to penalize those public-spirited concerns that do comply while more selfish interests continue to use all the grain they please. In other words, voluntary limitations by some distillers are a poor substitute for governmental allocation powers that also would encompass the holdouts. By the same token, restrictions on distillers alone are not enough when other commercial grain users are making no comparable contribution. Broad allocation authority over all grain is the only equitable means of enforcing the saving still necessary to alleviate world hunger.

MATS

Secretary Forrestal's order merging the Air Transport Command and the Naval Air Transport Service provides the basis for one of those sensible economies to be expected of unification. Likewise his selection of Maj. Gen. Laurence S. Kuter to head the combined Military Air Transport Service is commendable, though it is a pity to lose General Kuter's services on the International Civil Aviation Organization. Certainly the duplication of routes between the ATC and MATS was one of the obvious points for attack under unification. It is to be hoped that the new MATS will be able to carry over the same reputation for service that has characterized its predecessors. The important thing now is to make sure that the new organization does in fact bring both efficiency and economy and does not result in mere superstructure that is the prey of the empire builders. In this connection the "organic" air transport to be retained by both the Air Force and the Navy will bear watching, though undoubtedly some such facilities are necessary. The fact that the ATC-MATS merger is somewhat belated need not belittle the accomplishment, though there is some question as to whether the consolidation would have been forthcoming as yet had it not been for the pointed recommendation of the President's Air Policy Commission. This gives additional emphasis to the importance of the periodic reviews of the military establishment suggested by the commission. One purpose of such reviews should be to do away with competition merely for competition's sake.

There has been, naturally, a great deal of concern expressed in The Washington Post, as well as elsewhere, over current difficulties in attracting good men into the Government, and various suggestions have been advanced as to how to overcome them. Secretary Royall's solution, however, seems to me to point in the wrong direction. While he includes labor and farm organizations, as well as corporations, Mr. Royall's remarks must refer primarily to business executives.

He speaks of "successful" young executives who are so accustomed to "higher salaries" and the "accumulation of some financial competence" that salaries of $10,000 and $15,000 would represent for them a "personal and financial sacrifice." Few "successful" young executives in labor or farm organizations, I imagine, would feel that a salary of $15,000 represented a very drastic "sacrifice."

Career Replacements

In his search to find new members for the virtually decimated Civil Aeronautics Board, we hope that President Truman will not overlook the possibility of promoting career employees from within the board itself. This suggestion was made by Seth W. Richardson in a letter to The Washington Post last Sunday and is one which we think has particular merit. To be sure, it might not be possible to fill all three vacancies by this method, since the law requires that no more than three of the five members come from any one political party. Moreover, there is some prestige value in bringing to the board men of broad outside reputation. Nevertheless, it is a fiction, we think, that the only competent administration can come from big names. As we see it, there are three principal obstacles to be met with respect both to the CAB and other important Government jobs: first, low salaries; second, the abuse that conscientious administrators sometimes must take from certain factions on Capitol Hill; and third, the shabby treatment such men occasionally receive at the President's own hand. All of these points require correction. Meanwhile, however, the President might mitigate the difficulties by choosing one or more men of demonstrated ability from within the ranks. Such appointments would have the additional advantage of giving both a badly needed boost to morale in the CAB and a stimulus to the entire career service.

LULLABY

The moon keeps the kennels of seas;
The rivers are governed by rains;
And clouds are all tethered by winds
Across their aerial plains.

O sleep, sleep, sleep,
Child of this nightmare night;
Loosen your bridled fright.

The seasons throughout the long year
Champ at the bits of the sun;
Once spring and the summer have centered,
The gallop of cold is begun.

O sleep, sleep, sleep,
Child of this nightmare night;
Dream all those dreams that creep
Free of your trammelled plight.

The reins of our joy feel the tug
Of pains that are tied to the heart;
And never unravel those burrs,
And never from laughter they part.

O sleep, sleep, sleep,
During this nightmare day;
Peace is a leash we keep,
Holding our wags at bay.

Good Men In Government

Your columns of January 31 carried a report of an address by Army Secretary Royall before the Boston Chamber of Commerce, in which he proposed that, in order to fill important Government administrative posts, "corporations, unions, and farm organizations make available to the Government their most promising young executives for a reasonable period of service."

There has been, naturally, a great deal of concern expressed in The Washington Post, as well as elsewhere, over current difficulties in attracting good men into the Government, and various suggestions have been advanced as to how to overcome them. Secretary Royall's solution, however, seems to me to point in the wrong direction. While he includes labor and farm organizations, as well as corporations, Mr. Royall's remarks must refer primarily to business executives.

He speaks of "successful" young executives who are so accustomed to "higher salaries" and the "accumulation of some financial competence" that salaries of $10,000 and $15,000 would represent for them a "personal and financial sacrifice." Few "successful" young executives in labor or farm organizations, I imagine, would feel that a salary of $15,000 represented a very drastic "sacrifice."

But he that it may, a proposal to staff and administer the agencies of the executive branch of the Government with men on temporary loan from their own organizations, however successful they may be, would only perpetuate and extend evils that made their appearance during the war in the case of the dollar-a-year men. Executives of this sort could hardly be expected to meet Government problems in any other way but from the point of view of the specialized interests and considerations of their own organizations.

Current difficulties in finding able men for Government jobs do not justify, as it seems to me, in abandoning, as Mr. Royall's solution would do, what has thus far been our policy in recruiting for the Government, namely, to make the conditions of Government service such as to attract and hold able men and women on a permanent basis. While there is obviously an urgent need for an increase in top salaries, the Government can never hope to match top salaries in private corporations. It must, and I think should, continue to rely less on financial considerations and more on considerations of prestige, responsibility and public service for recruiting people whose career interest, and not the limited interests of any one particular political or economic group.

Judge Tamm

Doubtless FBI Agent Tamm is a fine gentleman, and the record shows him a redoubtable detective. The record shows, too, that his career at the bar covered about six months; it does not show that he ever tried a case.

How, then, can he be qualified to be a judge of the United States? CITIZEN.

"Enough Housing"
In The Washington Post of January 31, Mr. Rufus S. Lusk is reported as saying at a rent-control public hearing that "the District has enough housing."

I doubt that he can prove that. I doubt, too, that the many families whose ads appear daily in the "Apartment Wanted" columns are doing so merely to accommodate the classified ad department. I suggest for Mr. Lusk's benefit a survey of the District real estate agencies for an estimate of the number of still unfilled applications for rental housing and the number of those whose applications are refused every day.

The man who referred to the 50,000 vacant rooming-house beds might try living in a bedroom, particularly with a child or two, eating every meal at restaurant or cafeteria, and then reporting on his experience. I'll wager it will be an enlightening even if disheartening one.

Community Chest Dissension

It would seem that the time is ripe for serious consideration as to the destiny of the so-called Community Chest. The Washington Post and other local papers have explored the poor showing resulting from the recent drive, and The Washington Post in its editorial of January 13 emphasized some of the reasons for the lack of enthusiasm for the drive, and suggested reforms for the future good of the Chest.

Some of the real reasons why the Community Chest did not reach its goal, and will not reach its goal until a change is made, seem to have been overlooked by you. When you mention the "dissension" resulting from the investigation of the Chest last year, you merely scratch the surface.

The "dissension" before the 1947 drive was not caused by the "investigation." It was something that happened before. When the Council of Social Agencies had been handed $55,000 of community funds to "make a survey of charity needs" for the postwar period in Washington, and came in with an essay which could have been written by a high school graduate, except that the school graduate would not have injected the racial issue into the Chest activities, the result was not merely "dissension." It was dissatisfaction and disgust.

Why is it that this criticism has some tint of racialism? If it is true, did this not spring from the "survey of charity needs" brought in by the Council of Social Agencies, which is made up of member units of the Community Chest?

It is not that the community is not behind the Chest? Perhaps it is because the Community Chest is not the Community Chest any more. The purposes for which the Chest was formed originally did not contemplate the actual uses to which the Chest is applied today.

The "welfare service" today is not exactly the welfare service which the originators of the Community Chest had in mind. The social welfare names tacked onto many of the member units of the Community Chest are not necessarily indicative of their worthiness of support from public donations, especially when many of these units perform services which overlap those of the District and Fed-

"Grass Roots Justice"

I served on the committee of the Bar Association which recommended Messrs. Myers, Korman and Bindeman to the judgeship on the Municipal Court, and as a member of that committee and as a member of our Bar Association I read with a great deal of pleasure your January 29 editorial on the appointment by the President of Mr. Myers. I think it was a splendid editorial and I believe it was most timely.

The people in the District of Columbia do not have a vote and I am inclined to the thought that it is because of the lack of a vote that so many of the people appointed to the positions here are not only from outside the District of Columbia but the appointees frequently are without the experience which qualifies them to immediately perform outstanding services.

It seems to me that those of us who earn our living in the District of Columbia, the civic organizations here, and the press, should follow your example of expressing our appreciation to the President and to the Attorney General when a man who merits recognition is recognized by appointment to office here and that we should also let it be known that we feel strongly on this subject and will strenuously object to the appointment of persons who are not qualified by experience to render effective service as soon as they take over a position.

FRANCIS W. HILL, JR.

Community Chest Dissension

eral governments and when they carry nice $5000 annual salaries for the "chief" of the unit.

When you speak of disintegration of the Chest having such disastrous results as to cause 125 separate solicitations from 125 separate units, it is apparent that you are unduly alarmed. What would happen is that the many units performing services not contemplated when the people originated the Community Chest would be brought out into the open. They would fall of their own weight, and the worthy charity and welfare units would remain and form the nucleus for a new and worthwhile Community Chest.

Now we come to the Council of Social Agencies. You say "merger" of the Council and Chest has been delayed too long. "Perish forbid!" There are those who believe that the real trouble emanates from the Council; certainly no one heard much of the Council till it started muddying the waters with the racial issue, and it is quite correct that a merger of the Council with the Chest, with the Council in control, will not solve the issue, nor bring any enthusiastic response during the next campaign.

There are many citizens who feel that the Council of Social Agencies should be completely and cleanly cut off from the Community Chest administration, and from its benefits; but the rub here is that the Council itself is made up of representatives from member units of the Chest, some of whose activities are questioned by the citizens' associations.

There have been specific recommendations made by responsible citizens' associations that certain named member units of the Chest should be eliminated by reason of their politico-social activities; activities in many cases inimical to the legitimate aims of citizens' associations, the point being that while an organization has a right to enter into political activities, it does not have a moral right to expect donations for such work from the citizens whom they oppose.

A step in the right direction would be to eliminate from the Community Chest all those units which serve employed and well-paid adults.

Oil Embargo?

NOTHING illustrates so well the complexity of our technological civilization as the current oil shortage. On the line of oil that flows from the source in the Southwest, life itself depends in the crowded cities of the Northeast.

Probably never before was any civilization so precariously hung at the end of so thin a thread. It is this fact that plagues the sleep of national-security planners and the heads of the big oil companies with the nightmare of breakdown.

The United States today is consuming nearly twice as much oil as before the war. The average per person for 1948 is estimated at 650 gallons. The prewar average was approximately 370 gallons.

As always, of course, the political reaction is swift. Congressmen from Northeast States are getting a deluge of mail from angry constituents who are pinched by the scarcity.

One result is a demand that the Administration put an embargo on all shipments of oil out of the United States. At one point this reached such proportions that passage by Congress of an embargo resolution seemed likely. For the time being, at least, the embargo seems to have been sidetracked.

This is due in considerable part to the vigorous defense of present policy made on Capitol Hill by Secretary of Commerce W. Averell Harriman and others who realized what such a step would mean. Nothing would so quickly turn opinion against the United States around the world as that kind of economic isolationism.

HERE AT HOME, it would seem to be merely inevitable self-protection, but abroad it would have quite a different look. We would appear to be wallowing in a sea of oil as never before while the rest of the world starved.

This becomes clearer when you look at the facts. In the prewar year of 1938, total oil production in the United States was approximately 3,600,000 barrels a day. The United States imported 155,000 barrels a day and exported 510,000. The export business was profitable to major oil companies. Customers in Europe and Asia built up a dependence on American supply.

In 1947, total production in the United States was 5,500,000 barrels a day; exports were 450,000 and imports were 450,000 a day on the average. Today this country is bringing in more oil than it ships out. And that net balance on the import side will prevail for an indefinite number of years.

Consider for a moment what is happening elsewhere. The contrast with Great Britain is striking. Last fall the basic gasoline ration was abolished. This meant that only those motorists who could prove essential need in Britain's "bottle of the austerities" could get any gasoline at all. It was one of the hardest blows on the middle-class Britisher who had looked for some letup and a little pleasure with the end of the war.

WHILE APPEARING before a congressional committee, Harriman was asked why oil consumption in Europe could not be cut down still further. In reply, he put another question: "Would you have them go back to horsedrawn vehicles?"

A further reduction in the amount of oil going to western Europe would almost mean that an embargo on American exports would be, in effect, a proclamation to the world that we in America were reserving the internal-combustion engine for our own private use.

Yet political pressures are undeniable. Some Congressmen who sincerely believe in the Marshall Plan and world cooperation have joined the clamor to cut off oil exports. Or at any rate they have made the gesture for the benefit of voters back home.

The current scarcity has brought new awareness of how helplessly the big cities in the Northeast dangle at the end of the oil pipeline. Kerosene is considered a fuel used almost entirely by country people living at the edge of our civilization. But Massachusetts uses one seventh of all the kerosene consumed in the country, and a lot of that goes for heating and cooking in the slums of Boston.

Kerosene is used in the same way in New York City. In and around New York City, there is a spiraling black market in scarce kerosene. According to reports here, kerosene sold at one time in Newark, N. J., for $1 a gallon. This hits where it hurts most.

Some Republicans may feel that passage of an oil embargo would be smart politics. Such a resolution would certainly be voted by President Truman, who would thereby not endear himself to those who worry about the oil shortage. But measured against the plight of the rest of the world, an embargo would be the politics of reckless folly.

White House Balcony

After viewing the picture of the new balcony on the White House in The Washington Post of February 1, I fall to see why anyone should object to it from the "artistic" point of view, if it enables authorities to leave off these horrible summer awnings. And why does anyone assume that only President Truman would ever use it?

As a matter of fact, I think that as soon as construction prices ease and materials get plentiful, the old obsolete White House should be razed and a new modern house built, containing all modern conveniences and the very best of everything else for our President.

Arlington Bar To Take Stand On Court Bill

the Arlington County Bar Association will consider backing a State bill to set up a separate County Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court.

The meeting will be held at 1:30
p. m. in the County Courtroom.
Attorneys Lawrence Douglas, William Medley, and Paul Brown will present the proposal.

Brown said the measure was drawn up for consideration after a letter recommending the move was sent the association by Trial Justice Hugh Reid.

By the 1930 Acts of Assembly, Justices of the peace and the Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court were placed under jurisdiction of the County Court.

The legislative proposal would separate the Civil and Police Court from the juvenile, and place each under a separate judge.

The move has long been advocated by Judge Reid, who said yesterday he had kept the Juvenile Court operating as a separate unit under County Court since he took the post.

Truman Dodges Query on Use of Belasco Theater

President Truman ducked a direct commitment yesterday as to release of the old Belasco Theater for theatrical use on a non-segregated basis.

The Belasco, facing Lafayette Square, is being used by the Treasury Department for a storehouse.
Reminded, during his morning press conference, that several groups here have asked that the building be made available for stage productions, provided there be no racial restrictions as to patronage, the President said he had considered the matter but that the Treasury has no other place to store its documents.

Asked then if he would favor such use of the building if it should become available, Mr. Truman replied that he would discuss that question if, and when the Belasco building actually becomes available.

Arlington Asks Stopgap Levy Power

Richmond, Va., Feb. 5 (Sp.)— With the incorporation issue still in the background, Arlington County yesterday asked for stopgap legislation to boost its revenues.

Delegate J. Maynard Magruder introduced in the House of Delegates here a bill which would give Arlington the same general taxing powers of a city, enabling it to impose levies for business, professional, and merchant licenses.

The bill, backed by the Arlington Chamber of Commerce, would net the county an estimated 300-000 to $500,000 annually, according to Paul Hill, secretary-business manager of the chamber.

Would Tax Auto Permits
The Arlington delegation plans subsequently to introduce in the Assembly legislation for auto license taxes, estimated to add another $100,000 to county revenues.

The bill would not affect benefits Arlington County now receives from State funds, but would give the county more city characteristics.

Since one drawback to incorporation has been loss of some State highway revenues, the Arlington delegation is watching progress of a bill to increase from $400,000 to $1,000,000 the State appropriation to cities per mile each year.

Today's session of the Legislature indicated that administration forces intend to fight bitterly for Governor Tuck's tax program.

Sales Levy Proposed
A bill to impose a State-wide sales tax, opposed by Governor Tuck, was introduced in the House today. The bill calls for a two per cent tax, sending two thirds of receipts to the State's general fund and one third to localities on a per capita basis.

A bill to establish a school transportation system operated by the State of Virginia was introduced in the House today. A similar bill already is before the senate for consideration.

Senator Charles E. Fenwick introduced a bill in the Senate prohibiting employment of a child under 14 except on farm work performed outside of school hours with the consent of a parent or guardian.

Date Set for Hearing
Senator Fenwick also announced that February 17 has been set as the date for a public hearing on his bill to tax cigarettes one cent a pack, with revenue to go for State aid for public hospital construction.

In the controversy between the Virginia Bankers Association and the Bank of Virginia over legislation to freeze branch banking, a joint resolution was offered in the House directing a study of branch banking by the Advisory Legislative Council, and a report to the General Assembly and Governor by September 1, 1949.

2 Die in Fire, 3 Fall on Man Aiding Rescue

Baltimore, Feb. 5 (AP)—Running to the rescue of occupants trapped in a burning house, George L.
Jones was hit today by three persons who plunged from upper floors.

Mrs. Mary Paddy, 43, and her son, George, 13, died in the fire while a crowd watched in horror.
Her nightclothes aflame, Mrs.
Paddy screamed and toppled dead from a third-floor window, an instant after George fell back into the blazing bedroom.

In falling, her body knocked Cabin Mueller, 26, from his hold on a second-floor window, and both fell onto Jones in the street below.

Jones had just picked himself up after breaking the fall of Mueller's pajama-clad wife, Betty, 22, who dropped from an improvised bed-sheet rope.

The rope slipped as Mueller tried to lower his wife to the street. Mueller, a Johns Hopkins University student, was attempting to fasten the sheets to the window frame when struck by Mrs.
Paddy.

Jones and Mueller were treated for back injuries; Mrs. Mueller for shock, cuts and bruises.

Mueller told firemen Mrs. Paddy and her son ran downstairs to the first floor when awakened by smoke, were cut off by flames and ran back to the third floor.

Cause of the blaze was undetermined.

BRITISH INDUSTRIES FAIR

1948
MAY 3-14

ON May 3rd 1948, when the British Industries Fair opens, buyers from all over the world will have an opportunity of inspecting the products of 3,000
United Kingdom manufacturers.

This annual event is the world's largest national trade fair. Such is its size and importance that you are urged to come yourself. You are assured of personal contact with actual manufacturers or sole selling agents and you will find exhibits carefully grouped by trades so that comparisons may be made quickly.

Above all you will see new achievements, new methods of manufacture and new ideas all executed with superb craftsmanship.

This is your only opportunity in 1948 to review within a few days the achievements of 87 United Kingdom industries.

For information and assistance you should apply to the nearest British Embassy, Legation or Consulate.

C-5 Retirement Bill Report Seen Facing Senate Opposition

RETIREMENT: The conference report on the Civil retirement bill has hit a snag. That was the report yesterday on Capitol Hill.

It seems that several influential senators are opposed to some of the provisions tentatively agreed to by the 10 House-Senate conferees, and they have threatened to oppose the report when it's brought back to the Senate.

Senator Taft (R., Ohio), who guided the bill through the Senate, is reported to be planning to meet with conferees at today's session.

Although it wasn't officially announced, the 101-man conference agreed unanimously on every important feature of the proposed report. The only item in dispute involved interest payments—whether it should be 3 or 4 percent—and whether an employee who resigns and withdraws his money should be required to repay his account plus interest compounded on his return to the Federal service.

It appears that the conferees will stand by their decisions. However, at least three Senators are known to want to keep a 35-year limit on the length of service that can be counted toward a pension. The House bill and the proposed conference report has no service limit.

The 35-year limit is difficult to defend. It penalizes the faithful employee who sticks to his job and makes a career of Government. After he has served 35 years, he must continue to pay into the retirement system and he receives no additional benefits for his money.

The Government already has enough restrictions, rules and regulations to discourage its faithful workers.

HOLIDAY: In case you've overlooked it, Monday, February 23, is a holiday for Federal employees. Government offices will be closed on that day.

Sunday, February 22, is George Washington's birthday. The rule is this: when a holiday falls on Sunday the day following is declared a holiday. This means that July 4 also will be a holiday, since July 4 falls on Sunday. But Christmas this year is on a Saturday and that means no time off for most Government people.

NOTES: Philip Young, the son of Owen D. Young, who is a former Ford-Lease official, has turned down an offer to be civilian personnel advisor to Defense Secretary Forrestal. Representative John Lyle (D., Tex.) will speak to the National Association of Retired Civil Service Employees Saturday at 2 p. m. in the auditorium of the National Museum, Constitution ave. and 10th st. Interior Secretary Krug has urged the Congress to vote a benefit for an Indian whose name is "PLAYS WITH HIMSELF."

MISS INTERNAL REVENUE for 1948 is Betty Hartman. Runners-up were: Gertrude Marconia, Dorothy Bohenek and Virginia Miller. Miss Hartman polled 335 votes in a popularity contest. She was crowned the most popular girl in Revenue at a recent dance by Internal Revenue Post No. 39 of the American Legion.

CLERICAL: This is bad news for war service and temporary employees who failed last year's clerical examination for Grade 3 and 4 jobs.

Civil Service now says it definitely will reschedule the clerical examination, but it now appears that it will be for Grades 1 and 2 only. A recheck, an official said, indicates it will have enough eligibles on its Grade 3 and 4 registers to meet the demand. However, there is still a chance—though slight—that the Grade 1 through 4 examination will be re-given.

JOBS: The Fourth Regional Civil Service office says applicants for these jobs in the Naval Gun Factory here are being accepted: Toolmaker, $12.32 to $13.28 a day, auto mechanic and crystal oscillator maker jobs to pay from $10.16 to $11.12 a day.

HONOR: Lyman S. Hulbert, an Agricultural attorney, was honored yesterday by the University of Wisconsin for his "development of better agricultural thought and the improvement of rural living."

He has been "with the department since 1917 and he's a legal expert on farm cooperatives. He's now the attorney for the Central Bank for Cooperatives and the 12 regional cooperative banks. His home is at 2828 Greenvale st., Chevy Chase, Md.

NAVY has a committee at work on the possible further decentralization of its offices here. However, this can be said for sure—that the committee has yet to come up with any serious plan to move additional offices and people out of this city.

But the committee will continue to work on a major decentralization plan in event a scattering of offices becomes necessary as a security measure. The Navy wants to be ready if that time ever comes. Meantime, members of the committee take the position that further decentralization of the Government here is a problem that

Boy Killed Under Truck In Alexandria

A 6-year-old Alexandria boy was killed instantly yesterday when he was run over by a truck in the 900 block of Orinoco st., Alexandria.

He was Melvin O. Brown of 327 N. Patrick st. Police said the boy ran in the path of a truck belonging to the Alexandria Iron Works and driven by Woodrow W. Staats, 29, Rt. 5, Box 108, Alexandria.

No charges were placed against Staats.

CONTEST—From Page 1 Brunette And Blonde Win Contest

as a model for the trip, but the judges were "so impressed by the fact the No. 2 gal was a dead-ringer for the second girl in the story that we decided to use her as a model, too."

Audrey Gets Trip, Too
Consequently, Audrey will also get a trip to Bermuda, where she will share quarters with her fictitious roommate in the Hotel Bermudiana. She will receive $50 in cash.

The trips are being provided by the World-Wide Travel Service Corp. and the hotel sojourn by the Hilton Hotels.

Gini, a native Washingtonian who lives at home, was dressed for the judging in a black skirt featuring the "new look" and a black and teal blue striped jersey blouse. She has blue-green eyes "which change color" and wears her hair parted in the middle with a chignon at the nape of her neck.

She likes dancing, "loves to samba," is keen on night clubbing and not adverse to men. "I want to get married," she said. "Please put that in there."

But she confessed that she's "kind of going steady" with a certain young man of 29. She measures 5 feet 4 inches, with a 34-inch bust, 24-inch waist, 34-inch hips and weighs 98 pounds. Audrey, who admitted to feeling "just wonderful," hails from Weatherly, Pa., and has lived here since 1945.

"I'm very proud that I was chosen for the Mary Worth strip since that's my favorite. I follow it religiously," she said.

Just An Average Girl
She described herself as "just an average girl" who is "plain in all my tastes." Her biggest loves, in addition to her husband, Ernest, 24, "who talked me into entering this contest," are children and dancing. She doesn't "drink, smoke or swear."

Audrey's suit also featured the new longer skirt and underneath it she wore a white blouse with lacy cuffs and jabot. She is 5 feet 3 inches tall and weighs 124 pounds.

Both girls will be interviewed over WINX at 4:15 p. m. today and tomorrow they will appear on a WNBW television broadcast at 4 p. m. The new Mary Worth episode will begin March 28.

Dr. Sweeney Faces Ouster At Gallinger

Dr. Alvin R. Sweeney's reign as superintendent of Gallinger Hospital was nearing an end yesterday.

Dr. George C. Ruhland, District said he would advise Dr. Sweeney to resign "if it appears there is no way of saving him."

Dr. Sweeney said, "I have no disposition to fight for the job. I've been holding it at a sacrifice right along."

He added that he has not been approached yet about resigning and does not know what he will do if such a suggestion is made.

Rumors of Dr. Sweeney's impending ouster began circulating Wednesday after a conference between Dr. Ruhland and Kimball Sanborn, staff expert for the Senate Appropriations Committee. Dr. Ruhland said he understood Congress could eliminate Sweeney's job by minor changes in the District Appropriations bill.

Personnel Report Demanded
He made this statement after receiving a letter from Senator Henry C. Dworshak (R., Idaho), chairman of the Senate District Appropriations Subcommittee, demanding a report on Gallinger's personnel situation. Sanborn is assigned to work with Dworshak's group.

Dworshak declared that "considerable adverse criticism" of Gallinger had brought the "inferior" that the hospital is understaffed because it lacks personnel funds. Such inference is "false," he asserted.

"I would like an explanation as to why the hospital authorities are hiring 25 per cent less personnel than is authorized by Congress," he said.

"Are wages too low? Are working conditions unfavorable? Is the personnel policy of the hospital administration of such nature that employees won't stay on the job?" he asked.

Data Being Prepared
He said he would discuss the matter with Ruhland "later," when his subcommittee considers the District budget. Meanwhile, he said he would "expect" Ruhland to endeavor to bring Gallinger's staff up to full authorized strength.

Dr. Ruhland refused to comment on the letter and said it was referred to the Health Department budget officer, who is preparing a statistical report on Gallinger personnel.

Dr. Sweeney said Gallinger's personnel situation could "all be explained very easily."

Commissioner Guy Mason said he had received no word of Sweeney's intention to resign from either Sweeney or Ruhland. "If Sweeney does resign, I'll recommend to the Health Officer that Southwick (Robert D. Southwick, deputy administrator) be given a chance at the job," he said. "But I won't era mha appointment rate."

13 Hospitalized for Frostbite; 9,500,000 Gallons of Fuel Oil Due

Number Believed Largest in District History; Some May Lose Toes or Feet

Thirteen frostbite patients, believed by Health Department officials to be the largest number in District history, were treated yesterday in Gallinger Hospital's surgical services.

Gallinger Superintendent Alvin R. Sweeney said some of the cases were so severe that patients will lose feet or toes due to gangrene. He estimated this group would require more than 1500 days of hospital treatment before recovery.

Georgetown Hospital officials also reported treatment of four frostbite cases in the past week. One was admitted to the hospital, they said.

Dr. Harry H. Abrahams, Gallinger surgery resident, emphasized that to prevent serious damage, persons should thaw out gradually after exposure to extreme or prolonged cold. Go to a cool room, put blankets around the body and leave the feet uncovered, he advised.

But don't put feet near a stove, rub them, or put hot water bottles on them, he warned. (This applies to any frostbitten part of the body.)

To avoid frostbite, he recommended these measures: wear shoes which don't constrict the feet; wear heavy wool socks or several pairs of lightweight socks; apply vaseline or oil to the skin; keep feet dry (wet feet are more susceptible to frostbite).

Elderly persons and those with circulatory difficulties should be especially careful to guard against frostbite, he added.

Storm Swings to Sea

The snow, sleet and rain which pelted the area Wednesday moved out to sea, but more foul weather is "cooking up" in the Southwest and moving this way, the bureau reported.

Highways that were slashed-covered Wednesday proved treacherous, going in spots yesterday as ice formed and stayed. They won't improve today either, the bureau said.

Police reported 32 property damage traffic accidents between 8 a. m. and 4 p. m. yesterday and listed 37 persons as receiving minor injuries in falls on slippery pavements.

Fifteen persons were treated for minor frostbite.

In Maryland, only the Eastern Shore escaped a slippery glaze on highways. Garrett County had 11 inches of snow on the ground, with drifts up to 20 inches. Conowingo in Cecil County had 10 inches. Cambridge and Salisbury had little more than rain. Highways are open, but sanding trucks are at work.

Elsewhere in the Nation, shivering cold continued as snow, sleet and rain fell in scattered sections, particularly in Kentucky and West Virginia. New York City has five inches of snow; California has its long-needed "million dollar rain."

It Does—on Coal

Can Building Heat Go to 79 Degrees?

There's a good reason why temperatures range above 68 degrees in many Government buildings—they're heated by coal.

Temperatures were checked in five Government buildings yesterday and they ranged from 76 to 79.5 degrees. What about the recent order of President Truman that temperatures be kept to 68 in Government buildings you ask?

Coal is the answer, according to W. E. Reynolds, Commissioner of Public Buildings. The ceiling of 68 degrees, he said, is not maintained in buildings not heated by fuel oil.

The five buildings checked—Commerce, Labor, Agriculture, Interior and War State—are all heated by the Government's central heating plant.

The District Building registered 78 degrees yesterday. It, too, is heated by coal.

Church Group Hails Civil Rights Message

The Washington Bureau of the National Council of Negro Churches of America yesterday praised President Truman's recent civil rights message to Congress.

In a telegram signed by W. H. Jernagin, bureau director, the council said the President's recommendations for legislation would "close the gap between our Government's world-wide declarations in behalf of democracy and our practice of democracy at home."

down Ruhland's threat." Dr. Ruhland said he would want to get "the best possible man" to be believed to favor an older man with medical experience.

Southwick, a 40-year-old administrator, came to Gallinger in September, 1945. He is not a physician. Meanwhile, appointment of three nurses at Gallinger Hospital was approved yesterday by the Commissioners. Flavia M. Ballard and Ellen G. Turner were appointed to $2644-a-year nursing posts. Evelyn G. Hayes was hired on a part-time basis at the same pay rate.

GAO Pleads With Congress For Own Home at 5th and G

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

Officials of the General Accounting Office yesterday pleaded with a Senate subcommittee to make their dream home come true.

For 18 years, since it was created by Congress to audit Uncle Sam's accounts, the GAO's hierarchy has been asking for a home of its own, but all it has been able to get is a helter-skelter of governmental hand-me-downs and a hole in the ground.

The excavation, at Fifth and G sts. nw., was dug in 1941 when a reluctant Congress finally okayed construction of a GAO building, but then came the war and the project was shunted until return of peace.

Frank L. Yates, assistant comptroller general, who's been patiently pleading GAO's cause since 1921, brought his arguments up to date yesterday before a Senate Public Works subcommittee headed by Senator Harry P. Cain (R., Wash.).

GAO's prewar personnel load has risen from a prewar level of 5000, through a war peak of 15,000, to a present level of 2500, according to Yates. It is scattered among seven Federal and four assisted buildings here. The proposed building, to cost $22,850,000, would permit a saving of two million and permit more efficient operation of the GAO which last

Sen. Wherry Says Conservation Fuel Advisable Ur Crisis Is Pass

Enough fuel oil and kerosene to carry the Washington-Baltimore area through the fuel crisis—9,500,000 gallons—is on the way here, Senator Kenneth S. Wherry (R., Neb.) announced yesterday.

An emergency shipment of 500,000 gallons will be delivered today to help the District through the still-critical period between now and Tuesday, when larger deliveries begin, he said.

The generally unexpected fuel oil relief promise came as local authorities were in the midst of plans for more drastic allocation of dwindling supplies.

Senator Wherry, chairman of the Senate Small Business Committee, announced that the committee received the fuel commitments in arrangements with Standard Oil of New Jersey, the Sinclair Refining Co., and Cities Service Corp.

"The next three or four days will be a little tough," he said, "and I urge every householder and business firm to use every conservation method."

"From next Tuesday on, fuel shipments, which are now on the way, will be sufficient to see the area through February, and, we hope, through the bad weather."

Standard, he said, today will deliver 500,000 gallons of oil to the Petrol Corp., hardest hit of the local suppliers. On Wednesday, in a plea to Interior Secretary Krug, the District Commissioners had sought five million gallons of fuel oil to carry Petrol through this month.

In an answer to the Commissioners, at about the same time Senator Wherry was making his oil announcement, Krug declared he was urging the regional petroleum industry committee to give the District request "immediate attention."

Between February 10 and February 17, Wherry said, Sinclair and Cities Service will ship five million gallons of heating fuel to the Washington-Baltimore area. Another four million gallons from the same companies will arrive between February 17 and February 20, he said.

About two-thirds of the total 9,500,000 gallons of fuel will be home-type No. 2 oil, the rest kerosene, it was reported.

U. S. Food Cost Doubles That of 1935-1939 Period

The family food bill here is more than twice it was from 1935 to 1939, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported yesterday. The index hit 205.4, compared to 100 for the 1935-39 period.

The figures, compiled as of December 15, showed an 11.4 per cent rise in retail food prices over 1946 and a 2.7 per cent increase in December over November.

Food bills here, the figures reported, averaged $10.33 a week, or 1.3 per cent more than in the country as a whole.

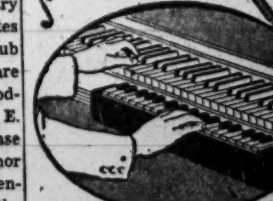

The bureau's national retail food price index, based on surveys in 56 cities stood at 206.9, the bureau reported. The figure established a new high nearly 2 per cent above the previous food price peak of last September, the bureau said.

New Locks Are Put On Traffic Records

In an effort to keep auto license suspension records where they belong, Traffic Director George E. Keneipp yesterday had all locks changed on the doors of the Bureau of Suspension and Revocation of Licenses.

Keneipp acted after the disappearance of the traffic record of Allen Fisher, 39, of 1336 1st st. nw. from both the bureau's files and those of the Police Department. After a conference with Police Supt. Robert J. Barrett, Keneipp said Major Barrett also was going to make an investigation of the loss of the police records.

The disappearance was brought to the officials' attention when Fisher was tried in Municipal Court and fined $325 on charges that included those of driving with revoked license tags and suspended permit.

Traffic Officer H. C. Wright testified he had studied the records on Fisher's suspension at the bureau last Friday, but found them missing Saturday when he returned. He said he then checked the traffic police files and found the suspension records missing there, too.

New Look in Hats Offered Men by Item Called 'Scoop'

WHAT SAY YOU, GENTLEMEN?—The "new look" men's hat (left) is modeled by Emory E. Ritchey, of Alexandria, Va., a clerk at the Young Men's Shop. Note it has a higher crown and brim narrower than the conventional model worn by Howard E. Sullivan (right), of 930 16th st. nw., a hat buyer for the shop.

It takes men a lot longer, of course, but eventually they get the point. So now, after jeering at us girls about the new look and making snid remarks behind our backs about the hour-glass figure, men are "new looking" themselves.

As least as to hats. The new look in hats which makes its bow today is called "Scoop" and is slimmer down to crown. The hat people think it will "meet the unexpressed views of the young fellows who, by their hatlessness, show that they are not enthusiasts about existing hat styles."

In a word, this is an effort to satisfy the chronic male desire to appear "studiedly careless"—although why some men want to look any more careless than they do is beyond most women.

Men are so much more stodgy about fashions than women, anyhow, that they are calling "Scoop" a daring experiment. Shaped one way, "Scoop" looks like a bucket-shaped rain hat, a style which young men seem to like. (And they talk about women's hats!)

Shaped another way, "Scoop" is a pork-pie variation with the slim brim, adding a different touch. Another different touch is that it is the first time in history that the entire men's headwear industry has joined to back the future of a single design.

"Scoop" is scheduled for its debut today in stores throughout the country. According to a director of the Hat Research Foundation, it's "the first radical style change since the derby gave way to the snap brim felt of 30 years ago."

By contrast, there have been at least 20 radical changes in women's hats during the same period.

Responding to the alarms, the first at 3:40 p. m., were fire companies from Chevy Chase, Bethesda, Kensington, Silver Spring and Glen Echo. The Bethesda-Chevy Chase Rescue Squad also responded.

Airline Offers Rebate If Planes Are Late
A revolutionary proposal by Northwest Airlines to refund its passengers 5 per cent of the purchase price of their tickets if they are more than 30 minutes late in arriving at their destinations, was disclosed yesterday by the airline.

It said it was the first time such a patronage-getting move had been proposed in their industry.

The offer was tied up with Northwest's notification to all other air line members of the A.T.A.'s traffic conference that it intends to file a brief with the Civil Aeronautics Board on February 15 announcing plans for a general 8 per cent fare increase over its domestic system and offering the passenger rebate for delayed arrivals.

Charlotte, N. C., Feb. 5 (AP).—Five North Carolina clergymen testified at a Federal Trade Commission hearing today they had obtained by mail and without study degrees ranging from honorary bachelors of theology to doctor of philosophy upon payment of $50 each to Mount Vernon University, Washington, D. C.

The institution, described on its letterheads as Mount Vernon University operating as Christ Seminary, is charged by the commission with claiming that it maintains branch seminaries in Fort Worth, Tex., and Tampa, Fla., when in fact it has only an office and some classrooms in Washington.

Neither the Rev. Samuel L. Lacy, Jr., nor nine other officers of the school, named as respondents in the FTC complaint, were present at the hearing here.

The ministers testified that about three years ago they had become acquainted with Lacy and the Rev. Fred Hinesley of Palmetto, Ga., when the latter held revival meetings in North Carolina.

Glass Firm Loses 15-Million Suit
Indianapolis, Feb. 5 (AP).—Federal Judge Robert C. Baltzell today approved a special master's report recommending dismissal of a 15-million-dollar damage suit filed by an Indianapolis glass company against what it alleged was a seven-company trade combine.

The suit, filed in 1942 by the Turner Glass Corp., charged the defendants with conspiring to force it out of business because of its "refusal to cooperate . . . in price stabilization."

The Turner Corp. has been in receivership since 1930.

Samuel Dodgen, the special master, decided the company's failure resulted from a business depression and that there was no evidence to support the charge that its failure was caused by action of the defendants.

The corporations named in the suit are the Hartford-Empire Co., Hartford, Conn.; Owens-Illinois Glass Co., Toledo; Hazel-Atlas Glass Co., Wheeling, W. Va.; Corning Glass Works, Corning, N. Y.; Thatcher Manufacturing Co., Elmira, N. Y.; and the Glass Container Association of America, Inc., and the Stevenson Corp., both of New York City.

Army Orders Restudy on Segregation

Secretary Royall announced yesterday that he had ordered the Army General Staff to reconsider the Army's traditional policy of segregation of white and Negro troops.

The action was disclosed in a letter to Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll of New Jersey, who earlier had set aside a National Guard order in his State barring Negroes from enlisting in white units.

Army spokesmen said the restudy of its policy on segregation was a broad one, dealing with the entire Regular Army, National Guard and Reserves and not just the situation in New Jersey.

A new constitution adopted by that State raised the question. It specifies that there shall be no segregation "in the militia or the public schools because of religious principles, race, color, ancestry or national origin."

Despite this provision, an order was issued by the New Jersey National Guard declaring that "under present Department of the Army policy, mixed units are not authorized" and Negroes cannot be enlisted in white units.

Following protests, Driscoll countermanded the order, and Maj. Gen. Clifford R. Powell, ranking officer of the State Guard, announced it would "promptly comply." Negro enlistments in white units will be accepted, it was said.

Earlier, the New Jersey Governor had telegraphed Royall and Secretary of Defense Forrestal asking whether National Guard units would lose Federal recognition and funds if it mixed Negroes and whites.

Royall yesterday gave out his letter of January 13, replying to Driscoll's wire. It said:

"The Secretary of Defense has asked me to reply to your telegram of January 8. The organization of your State militia and the policies pertaining to it are wholly the responsibility of the State of New Jersey."

"However, the organization of the Army of the United States, of which the National Guard is a part, has been governed by established policies which have been applied uniformly to both regular and civilian components. An analysis of this important matter has been undertaken by the staff to produce a sound solution."

Present Army policy puts whites and Negroes into separate companies, permitting both white and Negro companies in the same battalion. Navy policy calls for nonsegregation, while Air Force regulations provide for segregation.

Meanwhile, in a related development, the Committee Against Jim Crow in Military Service and Training condemned President Truman's civil rights message for failing to institute immediate equality in the armed services.

The group of Negro leaders also called upon congressional leaders to amend the pending UMT bill to bar "Jim Crow" policies under universal military training.

"In his message to Congress on Monday," A. Philip Randolph, treasurer of the committee, said of Mr. Truman, "he called for all the noble measures which Congress alone can enact, while as Commander in Chief of the Armed Forces, with full authority to abolish segregation and discrimination promptly by executive order, he shifted responsibility to the Secretary of Defense."

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES
This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief
Many sufferers relieve nagging backaches quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of filtering the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with aching and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully for millions for over 50 years. Doan's gives happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

British Nobleman Leaves Bulk of Estate to Ex-Dancer

London, Feb. 5 (U.P.).—A petite, red-haired, former ballerina was left the bulk of the $5,412,000 fortune of Sir Hugo Cunliffe-Owen, president of the British-American Tobacco Co., his will revealed today.

The will, naming Dancer Marjorie Daw Cunliffe-Owen as chief beneficiary, stunned London society. Miss Cunliffe-Owen, Sir Hugo's secretary, had adopted his name at his request only a month before his death last September. He was 77.

No mention was made of his second wife, the former Mauricia Martha Shaw of California. Three children by his first wife, the former Helen Elizabeth Oliver of New York, who died in 1934, will get a total of $500,000.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES
This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief
Many sufferers relieve nagging backaches quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of filtering the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with aching and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully for millions for over 50 years. Doan's gives happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

The Film 'Voice' Is Very Refined

DEAR UNCLE KNOWITALL:

I am worried. During the last snowfall my girl friend brought a young man to my two-room apartment and then discovered she could go to the opening of the Palladium Room with an elderly millionaire. This left me with the young man, and since the Washington traffic system had broken down completely and there were no hotel rooms anywhere, I suggested that he spend the night on my living room couch. It was, Uncle Knowitall, strictly platonic.

But now the very thought of him makes me dreamy and I'm mad about the boy, because I know he's true and fine and wonderful, having since that night had two dates with him. But the snow has brought on another Washington traffic tangle and while I'd like to have him stay in my living room, I'm not sure, considering the romantic course my mind has taken, whether this is the right thing. Will you please advise me what to do?

WORRIED.

DEAR WORRIED:

Throw him out, child. By the most amazing coincidence, just such a problem as yours is being faced these days on the Warner screen by the heroine of "The Voice of the Turtle."

This is the film version written by John van Druten of his stage comedy and stars Ronald Reagan, Eleanor Parker and Eve Arden.

They play the roles of an Army sergeant on a wartime weekend pass, a romantic young actress and a hard-bitten worldly actress. Bonnie originally is the friend of Eve, but she ditches him in favor of Wayne Morris and leaves him to Eleanor. Since he hasn't a hotel room, Eleanor lets him spend the night in her apartment. But as soon as they realize it's love, he goes to a hotel, where he conveniently does get a room. In the play, Worried, they knew they were in love, but he stayed anyway. But you see, that's the way they do things on the wicked, naughty stage and we can't have Eric Johnston's movie millions getting such notions as THAT in their heads. When Love Dawns you have to be careful.

Think of all the girls across our broad land in just the same sort of predicament as yours. It's all very well for a girl to be hospitable so long as it's platonic, but if Cupid comes in, too, consider the example the screen would

"NO! NO! NO! They're my brother's," explains Eleanor Parker to her sergeant caller, Ronald Reagan, in the Warner film version of "The Voice of the Turtle." Completing the original trio of the stage hit is Eve Arden. Other characters have been added by Author van Druten for a cast that features Wayne Morris and Kent Smith.

Low Life Is so Dull

'The Gangster' Isn't Even A Criminological Treatise

There is nothing to recommend about "The Gangster," the Metropolitan's new picture.

Exactly what it goes to prove seems to be that gangsters lead very dull lives and should be shot as soon as possible.

Barry Sullivan plays the title role in this production by the King Brothers, who had some success with "Dillinger." He is called on to play a small-time gangster whose racket is never made clear, which probably is all to the good.

This character, called Shubanka, does very nicely in his little game, supporting a blonde, a flashy apartment and a good-looking wardrobe. He's troubled, though, because no one seems to like him for himself alone. This understandable reluctance of his acquaintances to bore themselves to death sends the picture off into what I suspect its producers feel is fraught with psychological import.

They seem to be saying that if only he'd stop feeling picked on and be a nice little gangster he'd be able to maintain his hold on his rebellious background. As it is, another gang moves in on him, his

Father of 5 Children Awaits Execution Feb. 20 Calmly

A father of five children who killed a man in a robbery he attempted in order to get money for coal will be the first of Death Row's eight occupants to die.

Facing his fate calmly, cheered only by the 30-minute visits of his family once each week, 33-year-old Floyd Wilson, a Riverdale, Md., carpenter, is scheduled to go to the District Jail's electric chair February 20.

Wilson attempted to rob 46-year-old Milton E. Lowe, who was carrying receipts of the Giant Food Store at 5924 Minnesota ave., ne., when Lowe resisted. Wilson shot him.

Other execution dates range through March and up to April 9.

when Reginald Wheeler and Jesse James were to die for the slaying of Druggist Maurice L. Bernstein in his drug store at 1786 Florida ave. nw., on June 5, 1946.

The other death row inmates: Baxter Griffin, 42, who shot his host in a whist game because the man protested his teasing of a child. The victim was Lee Hunter, 25. Griffin faces the chair March 5.

Shirley Harris, Joseph Gray and Herbert Hall, all under 25, are scheduled to die March 28 for the holdup shooting of Frank W. Kelly the night of March 11, 1947. Lee Fook, 61, convicted in the knife slaying of 40-year-old laundryman Harry Lee on September 22. He is to die April 2.

Russell B. Adams Reported Slated For Place on CAB

Russell B. Adams, a Government career man, is slated for a place on the Civil Aeronautics Board, it was reliably reported last night.

President Truman, according to the report, has Adams in mind for the vacancy created by the resignation for Harlee Branch, who decided to quit the CAB because of "the high cost of living in Washington" and because he was "quite tired."

Adams is now director of the Economics Bureau of the CAB. He lives at 1719 Old Bladensburg rd., Silver Spring, Md.

It was thought possible that Mr. Truman might make Adams chairman. So far as is known, however, the President still is looking for a man to fill that post, vacant since the departure of James M. Landis.

Solid Cannery Refuse Banned From Streams

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 5 (AP)—Maryland canners will be required to keep solid refuse out of State streams during 1948.

Paul W. McKee, executive secretary of the State Commission on Water Pollution Control today said, the commission was ready to see that canneries obey the law this year.

Experts of the commission will answer as many requests as possible to advise canners on getting rid of polluting wastes.

Stone to Get Smithsonian Examination

The Kensington Runestone, which is believed to place the first white man in this country at 1362, was flown into Washington last night for examination of Smithsonian Institution experts.

The Runestone, which was unearthed by a farmer grubbing stumps near Kensington, Minn. in 1898, has been on display in Alexandria, Minn. since that time, and already has had a preliminary viewing by some historical experts.

Officials of the Minnesota State Society, who have been interested in getting the Smithsonian's opinion on the Kensington Runestone, believe that it establishes the fact that back in the fourteenth century, a group of Scandinavians went for a fishing trip to Greenland, got lost, and landed in Minnesota instead. The Kensington Runestone is purported to be a record of the death of eight Swedes and 22 Norwegians at the hands of Indians.

The Minnesota State Society hopes that next spring, archeologists will take a line detector out to the site where the Runestone was found, and find the graves of the Scandinavians.

After its receipt by the Smithsonian, the Runestone will be "borrowed" Saturday night for display by the Minnesota State Society's entertainment of the diplomats of the five Scandinavian countries, the State's Governor and congressional delegation, and Harold E. Stassen.

U. N. Group Says May Should See Korea Zone Vote

Seoul, Feb. 5 (NYHT).—The United Nations Commission for Korea agreed almost unanimously tonight some kind of election ought to be held within the American zone early in May, and the "Little Assembly" at Lake Success, L. I., should tell the Koreans what to expect before March 1, "Korean Independence Day."

The delegates today agreed they could not proceed with an election in southern Korea because the Russians blocked off the northern part.

The majority favored recommending speedy U. N. action.

Martin Hits 'Power Hungry' Administration Bureaucrats

By Genevieve Reynolds
Post Reporter

Speaker of the House Joseph W. Martin, Jr. (R.) last night lashed out at "power hungry bureaucrats" and charged that the Administration seemingly preferred to let this country go into an economic tailspin rather than cooperate with a Republican Congress.

His accusations were made before some 1200 GOP leaders at a Lincoln Day banquet sponsored by the League of Republican Women of the District of Columbia.

The Massachusetts Congressman said that "every last bureaucrat appears to believe it his duty to block any savings a Republican Congress endeavors to bring about every last one of them devotes himself to thinking up new ways to spend money. There is no limit to their schemes for spending."

Speaker Martin contended that the Republicans had cooperated with the President when called upon but when it came to cutting taxes and reducing expenses the "present Administration simply isn't interested."

Martin also accused the Administration of cooking up peacetime crises and emergencies as in the past 16 years in order to find new excuses for keeping or getting more power.

Then he promised that the GOP-controlled Eightieth Congress would continue to fight for tax relief and a balanced budget.

Mrs. Joseph R. Farnington, league president, who presided, had as special guests at the head table Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, president, pro tem of the Senate; Speaker of the House, Joseph W. Martin, Jr.; Senator Arthur Capper, senior member of the Senate; Senator Eugene Milliken, chairman of the Republican caucus; and Mrs. Milliken; Representative Charles Halleck, majority leader

Langer Clears REA Of Politics Charge

Chairman William Langer (R., N. Dak.) of the Senate Civil Service Committee, yesterday cleared the oft-embattled rural electrification administration of new charges of political activity.

He said hearings had produced enough evidence to "disprove the claims of political irregularities" raised by Claude Eppard, former manager of the Dairyland Power Cooperative, LaCrosse, Wis.

Langer said his committee will hold later hearings on Eppard's additional charge that the agency "betrayed" farmers in behalf of power monopolies.

This Morning

With Shirley Porich

YOU'D HAVE to say that Eddie Lyons, whose name is once again on the spring training roster of the Washington Club, is a precocious kid even if he has not yet made good with the Nats. He's making his fourth trip to the club's Florida camp, he spent three years on PT Boat duty in the Navy, and he still adds up to only 24 years.

Young Lyons was tabbed as a big leaguer as far back as 1940, when he was a 17-year-old tyke fresh out of a North Carolina high school, but his experiences thus far in the Washington camp haven't been exactly happy. He was too green in his first trial, and after that he was butting his head against the presence of Gerry Priddy in the second base job.

Priddy could turn it on real fancy around second base when he was of a mind to, and last spring young Lyons knew he was doomed to the bench even if he was kept by the club. "I'm wasting my time trying to beat Priddy out of a job," he told Manager Ossie Bluege, and asked to be transferred to third base. Instead, Bluege shipped him off to Chattanooga, where last year he batted .295 and looked like a good ball player.

POVICH by the club. "I'm wasting my time trying to beat Priddy out of a job," he told Manager Ossie Bluege, and asked to be transferred to third base. Instead, Bluege shipped him off to Chattanooga, where last year he batted .295 and looked like a good ball player.

BUT LYONS' training camp luck with the Nats hasn't improved. In a year when he does not have Priddy to contend with, Lyons is running smack into opposition from Al Kozar, the supposed whiz-kid whom the Nats obtained from Boston in the Stan Spence deal. Kozar was in Lyons' own league last season, with New Orleans, and was generally acclaimed as the best second baseman in the South.

Bucky Harris was manager of the Nats when Lyons first reported to Washington, and right off the bat Harris took a shine to the confident kid, who stood up to the plate nicely, took a vigorous cut, and scrambled pretty well around second base. On the baselines, he was fury.

In one game against Detroit in Florida, Harris started Lyons at second base and led off the batting order with him. Eddie not only beat out an infield hit, but barged into First Baseman Rudy York, who was occupied with taking a throw, and knocked him flat. When York recovered the loose ball, Lyons was fleeing to second. The throw to Charley Gehringer beat him to the bag, but Lyons was safe by the simple device of knocking Gehringer down.

BUT HARRIS didn't like such lack of respect for the kid's elders, and when the inning was over he bawled Eddie out loudly. "This is a spring training game," he said. "York and Gehringer are nice fellows. You don't go knocking nice fellows down in spring training. That's a busher trick." Lyons was on his way to the club's Charlotte farm.

He isn't a big kid, but he's a nice-packaged 170 pounds now, in contrast to the 145-pounder who first reported to the Nats. Seven years ago, Hank Greenberg of the Tigers actually mistook him for the Washington mascot, and before the game asked him to run to the clubhouse and get a coke. "Go get it yourself," said Lyons to Hank's astonishment, "I'm leading off."

At Chattanooga, Lyons has done all right, though a knee operation forced him out of the lineup in 1946. But in the few games he did play, he batted .380, and the Nats called him up for a trial at the end of last season. He set no worlds afire, but his firebrand aggressiveness was a welcome addition to the dead-fish Washington infield.

BACK IN THE Southern Association, Al Kozar may have been a better ball player than Lyons, but it doesn't always follow that he'll be a better ball player in the American League. It requires adjustment, and one thing is certain in Lyons' favor, a point on which Kozar is thus far untested. Lyons won't be suffering from any awe of being in the majors. He's thought he belongs for six years, now.

If Lyons doesn't make it at second base, this is the year when he may get a shot at the third base job. Eddie Yost did a manful job of it last year, but his .233 batting average was nothing to whoop about, and Lyons vows that he can hit .280 any year he gives him a chance to play in the majors.

Washington fans will have a rooting interest in Lyons, anyway. Not since George Myatt left the club have they had a holler guy. As Lyons says in defense of the noise he makes in the infield, "We may be getting liked, but there's no sense letting the other guys know it, for sure."

Area Ramblings

Baltimore's Stadium Suit Opens Mar. 8

Baltimore, Feb. 5 (AP)—An injunction suit seeking to throw the Baltimore Orioles out of the International Baseball League out of the Municipal Stadium will be heard March 8.

If successful, the suit would make the Orioles homeless. They have been playing in the Municipal Stadium since July 4, 1944, when their ball park burned down.

Herb Armstrong, Orioles business manager, said the club was not even speculating on what the loss of the stadium would mean. He added it already had "tied things up," preventing the Orioles from signing a lease for the season which opens late in April.

The suit brought by residents of the stadium area asks that the city park board be restrained from leasing to the Orioles. In addition to school athletic contests, the stadium is used by the Baltimore Colts of the All-America Professional Football Conference and the Navy football team.

The suit was invited by Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro after unofficial protests by residents that the Orioles baseball games, particularly at night, were creating a nuisance.

The mayor urged a court decision before the city got started rebuilding the stadium. The voters already have approved a $2,500,000 loan for improvements and will be asked to okay the same amount this year.

Pin-Point Fly Casting

Baltimore, Feb. 5 (AP)—Fishermen capable of knocking the eye out of a fish at 100 paces will demonstrate their casting skills in a combination outdoor show and three-ring circus in the Fifth Regiment Armory starting tomorrow.

Picked teams from Hagerstown, Baltimore and Washington will compete for accuracy in fly casting each Sunday of the 10-day show sponsored by the League of Maryland Sportsmen. The expert fly casters will attempt to break balloons with fishing plugs. Leading the Capital Casting Club from Washington will be Jay Reed, all-around Maryland champ and a member of the 1946 All-American casting team.

The Pangborn Lake Casting Club from Hagerstown will include E. L. Heard, Jr., H. P. Whipp and Sam Thompson, State champ in the 56-ounce accuracy division last year. Walter H. C. Tolle, holder of State honors in wet-fly accuracy, will be on the Baltimore team.

Dick West Graduates

Dick West, who starred as quarterback for the Episcopal High eleven and went on to quarterback Princeton to a Big Three football title last fall, received his college diploma from Princeton University yesterday.

West was one of 312 who received degrees, the largest mid-winter class in Princeton history.

New Faces Y on Mat

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 5 (AP)—Navy's wrestling prospects for the Olympic matches at London will take on the YMCA grapplers of Baltimore tomorrow night at the Naval Academy's Dahlgren Hall.

Gordon Wins, 29-20

Bay Coasts Home After Fast Getaway

Hialeah, Fla., Feb. 5 (AP)—Hail Victory, a Calumet Farm color-bearer which had been "knocking on the door" in four previous winter efforts, broke through today with a nearly triumph in the featured Florida Hammocks Purse.

The 6-year-old bay son of Blenheim 24, under a mere 106 pounds, whirled the mile and a furlong distance in 1:51 flat to prevail by three lengths. He was the fourth favorite in a row to score, paying $8.10 to $2.

Daniel Lamont's El Mono saved the place, a half length better than Mrs. I. Tuzeney's Calumet Farm castoff, Balanced. Yankee Hill, on which the pacemaker Ted Atkinson was seeking his first score of the balm afternoon, finished fourth of the eight veterans. The program was witnessed by 13,946 fans.

Hedley Woodhouse had the mount on Hail Victory. Doug Dodson, Calumet's regular jockey, could not get below a riding weight of 113 pounds, hence the switch.

After a fast getaway, Woodhouse, let Hail Victory ease off the sprinters, rating the confidently backed bay bounder in fourth place while Yankee Hill, Balanced and El Mono fought for supremacy. When the field swung into the stretch, Hail Victory did the expected. He swept past the leaders with little show of effort, winning as Woodhouse pleased.

Even Talking Crows in Show For Sportsmen

Log-rollers, fly-casters, fancy divers, retrievers, canoe tilers, pistol marksmen and talking crows will be part of a huge sportsmen show which opens at the National Guard Armory on Thursday, March 5.

Sponsored by the League of Maryland Sportsmen and its 78 affiliated clubs in Maryland and the District, the display will be the first major outdoors exhibition ever staged in Washington.

The water sports will be staged in a large indoor tank. On a stage adjoining the tank, fans can gawk at Jackie, the talking crow, an archery trick shot artist, badminton champions and Rosie, the bear who outmugged Bob Hope in the movies.

Other exhibits will depict the latest developments in sporting and recreation equipment, including boats, motors and marine paraphernalia, de luxe trailer coaches plus animated exhibits of vacation and sportsland.

The State of Maine plans a display which will feature real wares, breaking on its jagged coastline, live moose and deer, and huge fish swimming in replica brooks.

Maryland will show off its Baltimore Orioles and other live game in appropriate settings. The league, a nonprofit organization devoted to the cause of conservation and recreation, is headed by Glenn L. Martin, noted aircraft designer and builder.

Lions Oppose Philly Tonight

Coach Jack Riley's Washington Lions and Wally Kilrea's Philadelphia Rockets have split even in six American Hockey League clashes this season but the odds will favor the locals when the two clubs meet on the Uline Arena ice at 8:30 tonight.

All three of the Lion's wins have been scored on the home rink. In their meeting with the Rockets last Wednesday night in Philadelphia, the Lions added weight to the local rink jinx theory by blowing a four-goal lead to the Philadelphia.

Monday's Fights Are a Little On Heavy Side

The beef trust takes over the spotlight at Turner's Arena Monday when Heavyweights Lee C. Murray and Johnny Haynes collide in the 10-round feature.

Murray, still in the running as a title contender, stretches over 400 feet in the air and displaces 215 pounds. Haynes, a Californian making his Eastern debut, is almost as tall as his foe and fully 10 pounds heavier.

Matchmaker Gabe Mendez has requested that Marty Gallagher, former District heavyweight, referee the match. Gallagher, no lightweight himself, can push the arrow around to the 240 mark without benefit of a full meal.

Hoyas Loaded With Potent Frosh Talent

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

Now that its disappointing basketball team has dropped 10 of 19 games, Georgetown understandably is indulging in that old Brooklyn habit of talking about next year.

Fortunately, for Elmer Ripley's Hoyas, they do seem to have something to talk about.

The Georgetown Frosh, only unbeaten school team in these parts, has scored 13 victories. It needs six more to become the Hoyas' first undefeated freshman club.

Ripley, who also tutors the yearlings, is heartened by the much needed height the boys will bring to the varsity squad. The six outstanding frosh players average 6 feet 3 1/2 inches.

The talented half dozen boast a few other fairly impressive accomplishments. Each was high scorer on his high school team and each scored at least 30 points in one game before coming to Georgetown.

Forwards Jack Kelly and John Mazzotta currently lead the scorers. Kelly, La Salle Academy's All-New York City choice, has 187 points. Mazzotta, also picked on the New York City team when he played for All Hallows, has 161. Kelly is 6 foot 3. Mazzotta, only 17, is 6 foot 5 and weighs 225 pounds. Burr (that's his name) Carlson, 6-foot-6 center, is third leading scorer. Carlson played for Bethel, Conn., H. S. First-string guards are Tom Hardiman, All-State election at St. John's, Concord, N. H., and Wally Shields, All-Catholic at St. John's, Philadelphia.

Tallest boy on the team, who spells Carlson at Center, is 6-foot-7 Dan Supkis from Andrew Jackson High, St. Albans, L. I. Supkis plans to get contact lenses soon. His vision is so poor he says he sees three baskets. The secret he employed is garnering 60 points so far, according to Supkis, is that he shoots for the middle one.

Closest call the frosh have had was the 44-42 win over American University's Jayvees.

Despite the impressive scholastic records the frosh have, it won't be easy cracking the varsity team next year. Only Danny Kraus will be graduated. However, Coach Ripley said yesterday he considers all six men varsity material.

4 Timers Clock Dodds Saturday

Boston, Feb. 5 (AP).—When Gil Dodds, the country's top milier speeds round the Boston Garden track tomorrow night over his favorite distance, four timers will be stationed at the 1500-meter post.

The Boston A. A. committee, aware that this is Olympic year, and aware that the 1500 meters is the Olympic contest which compares with the American mile, wish to record Parson Dodds' time over that metric distance. The present "metric mile" mark, 3:48.4, was set by Glenn Cunningham in Madison Square Garden in 1938.

Kansas Sends Good Wishes to Navy

The Navy Department relayed word from University of Kansas yesterday that it extends "every good wish" for Naval Academy football under Coach George Sauer, late of Kansas.

Secretary of the Navy Sullivan read to his news conference this telegram from Dean W. Mallot, chancellor of K. U.: "It has been brought to my attention that the Navy has been criticized in taking our football coaching staff.

"I just want to tell you that we at the University of Kansas do not feel that the Navy acted in any way inappropriately and extend every good wish to the United States Naval Academy for the future."

Flight gridiron status for the first time in 15 years, says "speed, spirit and stamina" was the secret formula that brought two Big Six championships, not to mention a trip to the Orange Bowl.

With a four-year contract, Sauer will be the first civilian to tutor Navy's team in 15 years.

It's a Moot Question
Whether he can instill enough of the three S's into the Middles to bring them out of doldrums after a bleak two-year stretch in which they won only two games, is a moot question. If he can't do the job, he has a lot of Jayhawkers badly fooled, including Athletic Director Ernie Quigley at Kansas.

Admittedly more than disappointed at Sauer's sudden departure, Quigley, the former big league umpire, nonetheless had this comment on the subject: "He's got a big job cut out for him but no one needs to worry about whether he can take care of it. He's one of the finest young coaches in the country."

Sauer wasn't so optimistic. After a glance at Navy's 1948 schedule (which includes Notre Dame, Michigan, Pennsylvania, California, Duke, Columbia, Cornell and Missouri besides the ancient rivals from West Point) the new Navy mentor said wryly: "I'm packing my aspirin with me."

While nominally still head of the organization, it was disclosed today, he has turned over all matters outside player selection and playing management to a five-man board of directors.

The board includes his sons Roy, Earle and Connie, Jr., plus Robert Schroeder, director of concessions, and Benjamin MacFarland, traveling secretary.

Huge Trophy Awaits Foreign Diplomats

Secretary of State George C. Marshall made the draw today for the 29 tennis-playing nations which would like to take the Davis Cup away from the champion United States.

While foreign ambassador and assorted dignitaries watched, Marshall reached into the big Davis Cup. Slowly he pulled out the 29 names.

The United States, as the champion, has nothing to do while the 29 contenders fight it out among themselves this summer. It then meets the successful challenger for the Cup.

Australia, which gave the United States a tough fight in the finals last summer, is competing in the so-called American zone against Cuba, while Mexico will play Canada.

The European lineup: First round—Great Britain vs. India; Romania vs. France; Hungary vs. Austria; Spain vs. Sweden; Switzerland vs. Pakistan; Italy vs. Poland; Turkey vs. Yugoslavia; Ireland vs. Luxembourg; Egypt vs. Denmark.

Second Round—Netherlands vs. Portugal; Norway vs. Great Britain; India vs. Czechoslovakia vs. Brazil; Belgium vs. Argentina.

The Davis Cup, by the way, is a huge affair. It must be two feet across its silver top and four feet across the wood and silver base on which it sets.

Dr. Ludwig Kleinwachter, the Austrian Minister, remarked sadly to Lord Inverchapel, the British Ambassador: "Even if we win it, which doesn't seem likely, we wouldn't have enough money to pay the freight on it."

Kirby, Kirk Are Upset by Rollins Pair

Hollywood, Fla., Feb. 5 (AP).—Dorothy Kirby and Peggy Kirk were jolted out of the international four-ball golf tournament 2 and 1 today by a pair of unheralded college girls in one of three major upsets in the first round of play.

Another big surprise was the one-up beating of the team of Margaret Gunther and Polly Riley at the hands of Marge Lindsay and her University of Miami partner, Pat Devany.

In still another form-reversal, Mrs. Frank Fuller of Elgin, Ill., and Mrs. Lloyd Pray of Washington, combined efforts to eliminate 2 and 1 the experienced links duo of Mrs. Eddie Bush of Wilmington, Del., and Mrs. Maurice Glick of Baltimore, Md.

There was nothing even approaching an upset, however, for the favorites of the tourney, Louise Suggs and Jean Hopkins, who flirted with par in trimming the Des Moines, Iowa, twosome of Lois Penn and Mart Cordingley, 5 and 4.

The Kirby-Kirk effort fizzled before the Rollins College duo of Alice O'Neal and Lee Bengart. Coed O'Neal, former Indianapolis city champion, carried the burden of the upset with a 73 card.

Md. Blue Cross To Add Doctor Bill Insurance

Baltimore, Feb. 5 (AP).—The Blue Cross plan with which one out of four Marylanders insure themselves against unexpected hospital bills will be expanded next fall to take over the doctor's bill for a monthly fee.

The new plan—Maryland Medical Service—will be effective in September on a State-wide basis. It supplements Maryland Hospital Service, which was organized 10 years ago, and will be available only to hospital service members.

This is how the two insurance plans will work:

Maryland Hospital Service now makes it possible for subscribers to pay monthly fees and receive in return 21 days of hospitalization in a semiprivate room in any one year, plus costs of operating room, laboratory and X-ray service.

Maryland Medical Service will pay doctor's bills.

The subscriber will pay a monthly fee to be approved by the State Insurance Commission and receive in return 21 days of medical attention in any year, or an operation if required.

Rates will be fixed just as the hospital rates are fixed, with group plans through employers and individual plans for the individual or family.

The 21 days may be taken continuously or in several shorter periods.

Those who receive obstetrical care, tonsil or adenoid operations may take the service only after they have completed paying the medical service fees for a year and have started on a second year.

The physician or surgeon will collect his bill from the Maryland Medical Service, thus eliminating bad debts.

Maryland Medical Service will pay the fees, with machinery available for appealing from its decisions.

Choose Own Doctors

Subscribers will be free to choose their own physicians and surgeons.

Doctors here call it one of the biggest developments in Maryland medical history.

Maryland Hospital Service was started with a $10,000 fund subscribed by participating hospitals. That was paid back in 23 months.

Medical service will be launched with a fund of $10,000 subscribed half by the medical and surgical faculty and half by the hospitals.

The Maryland hospital reserve, totaling $2,900,000, will be kept separate from medical service reserve. The two organizations will be separate corporations, with separate boards.

J. Douglas Colman, director of hospital service, will be managing director of both organizations, and Dr. Richard F. Kieffer will be medical director of both.

Apple Board Welcomes Test Of Tax in Court

Martinsburg, W. Va., Feb. 5 (AP).—Malcolm M. Brown, chairman of the commission which administers West Virginia's year-old apple tax, would "welcome" a test of the levy's constitutionality.

Brown told orchardists from four States, here for the annual meeting of the West Virginia Horticultural Society, that the commission had met only a few times, has been operating "tentatively," and was ready to see the controversial levy undergo a court test.

A test has been threatened by opponents of the law.

In a talk designed to "clear all angles" of the dispute, Brown defended the law and outlined its operation. The levy was sponsored by the society.

Fred C. Matson of Martinsburg was elected president to succeed Howard Rannels of Romney.

Sam Skinner of Shepherdstown was named vice president.

Carroll R. Miller and Malcolm M. Brown, both of Martinsburg, were reelected secretary and treasurer, respectively, offices they have held since 1930.

Earlier, E. C. Sherwood, plant pathologist at West Virginia University, was named a life member of the organization.

Bay Ice Adds To Shortage Of Oysters

Baltimore, Feb. 5 (AP).—Ice piled up by two weeks of cold weather has about frozen out the Chesapeake Bay oystermen, but a State expert on bivalves said today ice is only a small part of the industry's troubles.

"There aren't any oysters," declared Ralph C. Hammer, culturist for the State tidewater fisheries department.

Hammer was speaking comparatively and his statement applies only to the Chesapeake Bay dredging grounds.

The dredge fleet expects to take about 25,000 bushels of oysters this season. Last year it was 100,000. Fifty years ago it was 10 million.

In the 90s there were about a thousand dredgers. This year, only 36 took out licenses.

Prospects are better for tongs, who operate by hand in small spots with pincers on long poles.

Many of the tonging beds have been revitalized by planting seed oysters and shells.

The main difficulty now in oyster "farming" is the scarcity of seed oysters, Hammer said. They used to grow plentifully at the head of the bay and could be transplanted for 15 or 20 cents a bushel.

Now the seed must be cultured and costs 40 cents a bushel. The State has appropriated $125,000 annually for propagation.

Todd Duncan Well Received; Organist Hilliar Shows Skill

By Paul Hume

Todd Duncan, Washington resident whose singing has brought him fame and honor throughout Europe and this country, sang in his home city last night.

The celebrated baritone sang songs of Schubert, Handel, Scarlatti, Purcell, and many more, with wonderful assistance from William Allen, his accompanist.

The program was heard in the Metropolitan A.M.E. Church. Duncan's voice is naturally warm and resonant, with a beautiful quality in quiet passages and virile strength in larger moments. His Scarlatti and "Wohln" of Schubert were notable for clarity in rapid passages, and for beauty of diction in both German and English. Handel and Purcell were effective when the tone remained covered, but the top notes seemed somewhat open, due perhaps to their coming early in the recital.

A block away from Duncan's recital, Edgar Hilliar, organist of the church of St. Mary the Virgin in New York City, was playing a concert under the auspices of the local Guild of Organists. The brief time our schedule for the evening allowed us gave incontestable proof of the technical virtuosity of this young organist on the organ scene.

His program in the National City Christian Church was distinguished by the fact that its eight composers were divided equally between the living and the dead. Washington gives its organists and their guild little support in the way they stay away from organ recitals. It was a bad day.

Ballet music Gounod's from "Faust" is appropriately used for accompaniment, and was beautifully played by the orchestra under Paul Strauss. The new work is one which should become popular in the repertoire, and remain in the repertoire with Miss Boris and M. Danielian to enhance its excellent stage.

Load Limits For Va. Roads Slated Feb. 16

Richmond, Va., Feb. 5 (AP).—Emergency load limits will go into effect on a number of primary and secondary roads throughout the State Monday, February 16, the State Highway Department announced today.

The announcement came at the close of a conference of department officials and district engineers. Attending the conference were representatives of the Virginia Highway Users Association, the State Corporation Commission, the Interstate Commerce Commission and the State Board of Education.

Under the limitations:

1. All heavy-duty interstate highways will continue to carry their 40,000-pound gross load limit.
2. Lighter-duty primary roads now limited to a gross load of 35,000 pounds, will be posted for 24,000 pounds.
3. Other primary roads will continue to carry their present road limits and a small number will be posted for 16,000 pounds.
4. Most secondary roads will be restricted to 16,000 pounds.

The highway department said no opposition to the plan was voiced at the conference.

The restrictions are being imposed to prevent a general break-up in the State's highway system in the event of a sudden thaw.

Explaining the plan, the highway department said no city or large town would be left without a high load limit road. Passenger buses will be able to operate and the 16,000-pound limitation on secondary roads will not affect their use by school buses.

No date was set for a lifting of the restrictions.

Schwellenbach Wants Job, Idle Pay Agencies

Secretary of Labor Lewis B. Schwellenbach yesterday appealed to Congress to give the Labor Department control over the United States Employment Service and the Unemployment Compensation Commission.

He told the House Executive Expenses Committee that transfer of the two agencies from the Federal Security Agency would save the Government money and make for a more effective Federal employment program.

The Administration plan calling for the transfer was submitted to Congress by President Truman under the Government Reorganization Act. It becomes effective in 60 days unless Congress decides otherwise.

Officers Are Cleared In Grounding of Ferry

Baltimore, Feb. 5 (AP).—Investigation of the grounding last Friday night of the ferry Herbert R. O'Connor today showed the vessel's loss was innocent of "irreparable fault" when it ran onto a sandbar with 123 passengers aboard and stayed there for 13 hours.

Comdr. Alfred W. Kabergne, head of the Coast Guard Marine inspection unit making the survey, said the probe would be continued to determine how its passengers were treated while the ferry was hung up.

Maryland Stockmen Pick Covington for Second Term

Maxwell Covington, Davidsonville, Md., was re-elected to a second term as president of the Southern Maryland Livestock Association last night at its annual meeting at Bernie Jarboe's Inn, Waldorf, Md.

Others named were Heath Steele, Great Mills, vice president, and Frank Gray, Marlboro, secretary-treasurer. Ben Parran, Prince Frederick, headed the nominating committee, whose recommendations were accepted unanimously.

Dr. John A. Foster, head of the Animal Husbandry Department of the University of Maryland, termed conditions in Southern Maryland parallel to those of his native North Carolina, where more diversified ways of farming are being urged to increase income.

Tobacco farmers in North Carolina are being urged to reduce their crops by 30 per cent, he said, in order to allow for planting of other crops.

Dr. H. C. Byrd, University of Maryland president, will ask the State Legislature for a new meat laboratory to study processing of meats, Dr. Foster said. A new swine building and beef barn are also planned.

Dr. Joseph Vial, extension service animal husbandman of the University, praised the success achieved by Southern Maryland livestock men at the National Livestock Show at Timonium, Md., last fall, where they took many championships.

Tobacco Cut Back in Va., Stanley Says

By The Associated Press

Virginia growers appear to favor overwhelmingly a 28 per cent cut in 1948 live cured tobacco acreage, Representative Stanley (D., Va.) said yesterday.

During a recent trip in south Virginia, Stanley said he found "almost unanimous approval by the farmers of the reduction announced in November."

"I was glad to find the reaction of the farmers so unanimous in confirming my judgment that the reduction should stand for the 1948 crop," he added.

Stanley said he had gained the impression that "even though the Marshall Plan passes and tobacco were included," it is unlikely the acreage would be increased.

There still remain, he added, large stockpiles and heavy loans made by the Commodity Credit Corporation.

WASHINGTON: FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1948

Tea, Ball Planned as Benefits

Mme. Bonnet, wife of the French Ambassador, will receive members of the Washington Panhellenic February 14, 3:30 to 6:30 p. m., at the embassy. The purpose of the event is to raise funds for the association's new foreign student scholarship project. This year's proceeds will be given to a student from France.

Composed of 20 national social sororities, the Panhellenic is affiliated with the National Panhellenic Conference. These sororities are active in all types of philanthropic work with emphasis on education here and abroad. So it's consistent that the group here should give a benefit tea in lieu of its annual luncheon. During the war the Panhellenic chalked up a high service record in USO, the Red Cross, and among other things outfitted a recreation room for WACS at Bolling Field. With war's end, the association members have contributed largely to foreign relief through CARE and the Indian Milk Fund.

Receiving with Mme. Bonnet will be the officers of the association, including Mrs. Ronald Kinsey, Kappa Kappa Gamma, president; Miss Gladys Fielding, Alpha Phi, vice president; Mrs. Charles Akre, Gamma Phi Beta, recording secretary; Mrs. George A. Gibbs, Delta Gamma, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Clyde V. Finter, Alpha Chi Omega, treasurer; Mrs. Frank B. Melson, Delta Delta Delta, historian.

Members of Congress and their wives will be among patrons and patronesses for a costume ball to take place at 9:30 p. m., Saturday, at the Burgundy Room of the Wardman Park Hotel for the benefit of underprivileged children in Puerto Rico.

The affair, which will have all the aspects of a Latin-American carnival, will be given by the Puerto Rican-American Women's League. Proceeds will go to the Asilo de Ninos Desamparado, or home for destitute children at Santurce, Puerto Rico.

Sponsors of the fete include Senator Hugh Butler of Nebraska, chairman of the Committee on Internal and Insular Affairs; Senator and Mrs. William Langer of North Dakota; Senator and Mrs. Dennis Chavez of New Mexico, Representative Fred L. Crawford of Michigan, chairman of the Committee on Public Lands, and Mrs. Crawford; Representative and Mrs. Antonio M. Fernandez of New Mexico, Representative and Mrs. Karl M. LeCompte of Iowa.

The Resident Commissioner from Puerto Rico and Mrs. Antonio Fernandez Lleras are among sponsors for the Ballet Soiree to be held Wednesday evening, February 11, at Carleton Auditorium, when Miss Maria Teresa Acuna, Puerto Rican dancer, will appear.

Mrs. Fred Vinson, wife of the Chief Justice, is a patroness and other patrons are Mme. Bonnet, wife of the French Ambassador; the Ambassador of El Salvador and Senora de Castro.

Look Pretty for Your Valentine Beau

THE NAUGHTY NINETIES . . .

Or is she a 1948 Valentine? Right the second time, and this little lady is the height of fashion in togs that were news when the Gibson Girl was in her prime.

a black cotton poplin skirt with dust ruffle of eyelet and a plaid taffeta petticoat.

Just like "Sweet Rosy O'Grady," whom she sings about in the show, Miss McKenzie wears a saucy black sailor, puts a beauty spot on her cheek and carries a gay, ruffled parasol—the better to flirt with.

Ensemble available at Jelleff's.

By Peggy Preston

HERE IT IS Valentine time and leap year, too! And making the picture all the rosier are the clothes we can pick and choose from this year—all designed to make us very, very "fashioning." They're pretty, feminine, beguiling, real old-fashioned "beau catchers." Makeup tricks will help, too. Pink powders and rouges can give you a Gibson girl blush; flirtatious beauty spots can attract attention when all else fails.

Fashion is actually fun this year. You can indulge your heart's content in silly ruffles, frivolous frills, gay hats and saucy accessories. It isn't even necessary to part with cash in order to be in style. Go rummage through the attic for old lace, hoop-skirts, fringes, fans, jewelry or anything else that strikes your fancy and use them to advantage in the leap year race.

As a Valentine present to yourself try one of these cute skirt and blouse outfits like Fay McKenzie is wearing in the picture above. This particular skirt is made of a heavy cotton fabric that is washable and long-wearing. Also, and this is almost its nicest feature, it is quite inexpensive.

But if it is a Valentine present from your beau that you are hankering after, then see to it that he is on F st., between 12th and 13th sts., tomorrow. A specialty shop has giant sprays hung over its doors and the entire block is going to be treated to an all-day spraying of "Black Satin," a new perfume! If your guy fails to take the hint after exposure to all that, then give up and trade him in on a new one.

NOW, IF YOU'RE interested in getting a first-hand look at the spring clothes you'll have no trouble next week, for fashion shows are scheduled all over town. To mention a few on the calendar:

Tomorrow, a showing of suits, coats and dresses during luncheon in the Pall Mall Room at the Raleigh Hotel presented by Raleigh Haberdasher.

Monday, February 9, Easter bonnet show in the lounge at the Mayflower Hotel at 1 p. m. Peter Bondi, a new, young hat designer from New York, will be there with his latest collection. A former GI, he came home from the war determined, of all things,

Food Dollar Buys More for Family If Backed by Nutrition Knowledge

By Lucia Brown

WHEN food dollars melt like snow in the sun, you want to be sure they're buying as much nutrition as possible for your family!

The speaker was attractive Mrs. T. McDowell Anderson of 5018 42d st. n.w., who sat watching her two lively young sons playing on the living room floor as she discussed the Red Cross Food Workshop she has been attending.

"I've always felt I could give my family a better diet and save money if I knew more about nutrition and how to market," she said, as she gravely accepted a leoparded toy dog 3-year-old Tommy offered her. "The present food situation just accentuated the need. A few weeks ago I hunted up one of those Red Cross classes I had read about in the papers and enrolled."

Mrs. Anderson and her husband, Dr. Anderson, assistant chief of orthopedic surgery for the Veterans Administration, moved into their house on 42d st. only last October. Before that, they were house-hunting, and before that, moving from place to place when Dr. Anderson was serving as a medical reserve officer in the Navy. Mrs. Anderson stayed with her mother in Florida while Dr. Anderson looked for a place for them to live in Washington. After a vacation from housekeeping, she was doubly conscious of the marked changes that had taken place in food prices.

"I've gotten a lot out of this Red Cross class, though I'll admit I was rather skeptical when I started it," says Mrs. Anderson, who will finish the six-session course next week. "They give you useful, practical information about food buying, meal planning and cooking foods to get the maximum nutritional value."

HERE, arranged in roundup form, are some of the tips Mrs. Anderson has gleaned from the class and discussed while we were talking with her at her home the other day.

About marketing: Reading is important in smart shopping—not only reading the ads for special bargains, but reading the labels on cans.

"Our teacher, Mrs. Chapin, pointed that often a can holding a cupful more food costs only a few pennies more than the smaller size," Mrs. Anderson said. "Some cans show the contents in cupful on the label. Others don't, but Mrs. Chapin gave us this table of the most usual can sizes to use when shopping:

| Can Name                   | Contents in Cups |
|----------------------------|------------------|
| 8-ounce . . . . .          | 1                |
| 12-ounce, vacuum . . . . . | 1 1/2-1 3/4      |
| No. 2, picnic . . . . .    | 1 1/4            |
| No. 1, tall . . . . .      | 2                |
| No. 203 . . . . .          | 2                |
| No. 2 . . . . .            | 2 1/4            |
| No. 2 1/2 . . . . .        | 2 3/4            |
| No. 10 . . . . .           | 10               |

Grade B eggs are just as good for most uses as Grade A eggs and cost as much as 10 cents less a dozen in some stores. Grade A eggs are nicer for poaching and boiling, but Grade Bs are satisfactory for practically everything else. Medium-sized eggs, Mrs. Anderson learned, are a wiser buy than large eggs at most times of year.

A 13-cent can of evaporated milk is equal to a 21-cent quart of fresh milk and is fine for cooking purposes, including making "sour cream" dressings and sauces. Mrs. Chapin showed the class how to add two tablespoons of vinegar to a half cup of undiluted evaporated

WHILE 3-year-old Tommy looks on admiringly, Mrs. T. McDowell Anderson prepares a fresh green salad for her family. In a well-balanced diet, leafy green and yellow vegetables should be served at least once a day in raw or cooked form milk and make a mixture that can hardly be told from sour cream.

It costs only about 15 cents a pint to make mayonnaise at home, while the price on a pint of ready-made mayonnaise runs around 41 cents. Home-made "salad dressing" represents an even greater saving.

Despite the fact that fortified margarine is about 50 cents a pound cheaper than butter, is it just as good from the standpoint of nutrition and doesn't "age" as fast.

Prepared mixes for pastry, cakes and bread are time-savers and in-

Insurance against failure for inexperienced cooks, but they do cost more. Enough pastry for the top and bottom crust of a 9-inch pie can be made for 5 to 6 cents, Mrs. Chapin said, while an equal amount of packaged pastry mix sells for 19 cents.

ON MEAL planning:

The careful homemaker sees to it that the diet of every member of the family (except infants) includes the following:

Leafy green and yellow vegetables—At least once a day.

Potatoes and sweet potatoes—One or more servings daily.

Other vegetables and fruits—One or two servings daily.

Milk, cheese and ice cream—Two or three times daily and in cooking. (Adults should have at least a pint a day, children ¾ to 1 quart.)

Eggs—A minimum of three a week; one daily is desirable.

Dry beans, peas and nuts—One or more times a week.

Flour, cereals or meal—At every meal for children; less for grown-ups when there's need to conserve cereals.

Fats and oils—Some daily.

Sugars, syrups and preserves—Some daily.

ON COOKING to get the most from your food:

Don't murder vegetables in the saucepan! Preserve food value by using little or no water—the minimum to cook without sticking.

Cook covered, without stirring, removing cover only for a minute or two to let volatile oils escape. Save vitamin-rich cooking water for soups, gravies or stews, or serve with the vegetables.

Cook meat, poultry, fish and eggs slowly for tenderness and flavor. Never "boil" an egg; keep the cooking water just under the boiling point. Less tender meat cuts now on the market have just as much nutritional value as expensive meats but long, slow, moist cooking is especially important in preparing them.

When serving stews or hamburgers, don't get in a rut. There are many intriguing foreign dishes that are variations of these. Members of the Food Costs Workshop received a number of recipes for them, including the following:

NORWEGIAN MEAT PUDDING

1½ pounds lean ground beef. Grind twice.

3 medium-sized potatoes, cooked and mashed.

Blend meat with potatoes. Add flour, salt and spices. Gradually work in the milk, adding one or two tablespoonsful at a time. Stir well. Cook in top of double boiler for about 1 hour. Pudding is done when the meat juice turns gray. Test by inserting a sharp knife. If it comes out clean, meat is done. Serve with a light or brown gravy.

Foods Workshop
Plans Classes

Two new Red Cross Foods Workshops will begin within the near future.

A daytime class, which will meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays, starts February 17 at 1 p. m. An evening class begins Monday, February 16, at 7 p. m. Classes will be held at the Walsh House, 2020 Massachusetts ave. n.w. Courses include six two-hour sessions, are free of charge, and open to everyone.

To register, call HObart 6800 and ask for Nutrition Service, or send a penny postcard to Nutrition Service, D. C. Chapter, ARC, 1730 E st. n.w., Washington, D. C.

DURING a lesson on marketing, Mrs. Frances Chapin, teacher at the Red Cross Foods Workshop, shows Mrs. Anderson two cans of corn that vary little in price but considerably in the amount they contain. The small one holds 12 ounces and the large one 1 pound, 4 ounces, but the difference in price was only 3 cents. Mrs. Chapin is assistant director of nutrition for the District of Columbia Chapter of the Red Cross. Other members of the class seen in the picture are (left to right): Mrs. T. S. Edwards, Mrs. W. L. Stracke, and Mrs. W. R. Bristol.

Ask Anne Your Questions on Homemaking

Lately I have been doubtful as to whether a few antique pieces given me are not just plain crockery. A friend thinks it may be heavy bone china. The only information I can give you on these articles is from the inscriptions on the base. The information is as follows: John Maddock and Sons, Ltd., England, Royal Warrant. Also written in gold is 987 Olive, and they (the pieces) are all handpainted. We figure these articles to be around 50 years old and some of the gold trim has been scraped off due to damage by fire. I would like to know whether it's possible to have these articles retipped in gold and where can this be done? P. R. E.

If you will take a piece of this china to an antique dealer specializing in china, he will be able to tell you just what the material in your pieces is. Some of these dealers make a life work of the study of china and often can tell what the body of the china is (that is what is under the glaze) by looking at the piece. One such dealer in your area, Alexandria, has said he would be glad to appraise your piece, without charge, if you will bring it in. He can be reached at Alexandria 0576. When he sees the piece, he will also be able to advise you as to retipping.

I have recently purchased a washing machine (automatic) which I have used with different soaps, bluing, bleaches, etc., but have not been able to hit on any system which would guarantee a perfect white wash, except bleaching for at least an hour before washing. This has resulted in my hands cracking and bleeding. I'm sure there must be an easier way of accomplishing a perfect wash. Could you give me any advice? Also, what do you think of the idea of using liquid bluing in the suds instead of the many blue flakes on the market, which I have found to be quite an expense. R. R.

Obviously you are not getting the best service from your machine. I discussed your problem with the distributor of your particular machine and he says that you are given a year's warranty and free service with the machine. Since it is not operating satisfactorily, he suggests you contact your dealer, if you purchased the machine in this area. If you did not purchase the machine locally, call the distributors in this area (Randolph 1602). They have a qualified demonstrator who will come to your home without cost or at a small fee, depending upon conditions of purchase of your machine, and show you exactly what to do to get a perfect wash. Also, the demonstrator will be able to tell you if the machine is operating correctly. The reason that soap, bluing are recommended for an automatic washer is that this type of bluing contains a dye which is not removed by the subsequent rinsings in the automatic washer. The effect of the liquid bluing would be lost in an automatic washer.

I have elderly guests coming to Washington for the first time. Can you give me a list of interesting drives in and around Washington? N. P. H.

There are many beautiful and historic drives one can take in and around Washington. Surely a visitor's view of Washington must include a drive around the Tidal Basin to see the famed cherry trees, Washington Monument, the Jefferson and Lincoln Memorials, and Reflecting Pool. Also, in the Tidal Basin area is Haines Point with its planting of double cherry trees. If possible, plan your visitors' first trip to the Lincoln Memorial at night, when the lighted monument is an inspiring sight.

A drive across the Potomac to Arlington Cemetery should be included in your visitor's itinerary. Plan to make a stop at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier and Lee's Mansion.

Of course, a trip to Mount Vernon is a must. Follow the Memorial Highway through Alexandria to Mount Vernon. Even if your guests don't feel up to the walk through the grounds at Mount Vernon, the lovely scenery along the river is surely well worth the round trip drive, approximately 20 miles from Alexandria. The trip could be broken by luncheon or tea at the pretty little tearoom at Mount Vernon.

Then there is Rock Creek Park. It is possible to start at Lincoln Memorial and drive to the East West Highway in Maryland entirely in the park. To take this drive, follow Rock Creek all the way. This will take you through the Zoo and lovely winding wooded drives.

A drive up Massachusetts ave. and 16th st. to see the embassies might prove of interest. Also a trip through old Georgetown and the historic places in the older section of Alexandria would be interesting to students of history.

SECRETARY of Agriculture and Mrs. Clinton Anderson inspect the "step-saving" on display in the patio of the Administration Building of the department farm kitchen which was designed in Department of Agriculture laboratories and is now on display in the patio of the Administration Building of the department.

Dream Kitchen for Farm Home Is Open for Public Inspection

A dream kitchen for the modern farm home is now on exhibit in the patio of the administration building of the United States Department of Agriculture.

A cheerful yellow, blue and white room, it includes a compact U-shaped work center and a dining corner. Working and storage spaces are arranged so that walking, stooping and stretching are cut to a minimum.

Designed by Miss Lenore Sater, head of the Housing and Household Equipment Laboratories of the Bureau of Human Nutrition and Home Economics, the room can be adapted to use in a town as well as a country dwelling. The department plans to have detailed working drawings available soon, so that the kitchen can be easily reproduced by local carpenters or cabinet makers.

Admiring Comments

Ingenious features that drew admiring comments from the women viewing the kitchen yesterday included:

"Lazy Susan" revolving wall cupboards that make maximum use of two corners of the kitchen. There are two of the cupboards—a large one at the bottom and a smaller one above—in each of the corners.

A two-level, double sink which was made in the equipment laboratory and is not yet on the market.

It has a bowl on the right, 5 inches deep, which permits dishwashing at a comfortable height. The left bowl, eight inches deep, is for draining dishes and washing vegetables. A medium-sized dish drainer will rest on its rims.

A counter for preparing vegetables, with pull-out bins just above it for storing fruits and vegetables.

A garbage short-cut arrangement which seems just about ideal for the farm family that feeds its scraps to the chickens or pigs. An oblong opening in the counter beside the sink provides a space through which to scrape dishes and peel fruits and vegetables. Beneath it is a 3-gallon pail, which can be removed through an insulated door on the yard side of the kitchen, or through a cabinet door in the kitchen.

The kitchen will be on public exhibit every day through Tuesday, February 17 (except for Saturday and Sunday). Demonstrations will be given at 9:30 and 11 a. m., 1:30, 2:30 and 3:30 p. m. There will also be demonstrations at 7:30 and 8:30 on Wednesday and Friday evenings.

Planned for the Sweet Tooth

Chilled canned cling peaches are one of the simplest and most acceptable desserts. Store-bought chocolate sandwich cookies are tops with them. For special occasions add a spoonful of sherry wine to each serving of peaches just before bringing to the table.

One of the easiest confections you can make is chocolate dipped almonds. Roast the almonds first and then coat them in melted dipping chocolate which is just slightly warm. Lift the almonds out of the chocolate with a fork and allow them to dry on a sheet of waxed paper.

A mug of apricot whole fruit nectar is a perfect warmer for children when they come in from playing outdoors these cold wintry days. Add a raisin oatmeal cookie and you'll have them convinced it's a party.

Cooked prunes become a Sunday morning breakfast fruit when they are served in orange or pineapple juice. Combine prune juice and orange juice half and half and pour over the prunes.

Determined to Have Her Share of Happiness, Girl's Resolution for the Year Is to Take Married Man From His Wife; How About It?

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I tried mothers, "A man who lets two women compete for his favor isn't worth the attention of either." And speaking of unmarried mothers, the single girl who undertakes to steal a man from his wife, because desperately infatuated with the fellow, usually experiences the "singed moth" fate in some degree.

My campaign is mapped out and I don't see how it can fail. I have always been of the opinion that if a woman cannot hold her husband, she must have let herself slip miserably and she deserves to lose him.

Would you please give me your honest opinion of the matter? I know you are an honest person who hits from the shoulder and I can take it. This discussion might also help some other wavering female to take the plunge for what she knows she wants—whether she gets it by fair means or foul.

I really would appreciate your advice, as you are probably the only person to whom I would turn an attentive ear; and to prove my honesty I am signing my correct name, as I know you protect the writer's identity by publishing only initials. I shall be waiting for your reply.

Girl Is Courting
Singed-Moth Fate

DEAR S. C.: You speak from vast ignorance in arguing that if a wife can't hold her man, she deserves to lose him.

If, in order to keep him, she must be eternally vigilant to checkmate would-be raiders or surpass them in forms of allurements, it means he is worthless stock in the way of husband-material, and that marriage in the real sense can't be developed in relation to him, because he is deficient in mature responsible qualities of character.

As a wise old social worker once said, having spent 30 years trying to iron out difficulties for unmarried mothers, "A man who lets two women compete for his favor isn't worth the attention of either." And speaking of unmarried mothers, the single girl who undertakes to steal a man from his wife, because desperately infatuated with the fellow, usually experiences the "singed moth" fate in some degree.

Such a Victory
Entails Defeat

THUS, even if she gets the man by legal seizure eventually, her triumph will be vitiated by the psychological and social penalties incurred in process, and the radiant joy, satisfaction and pride which are every proper bride's proper portion—and which can only be had with society's benevolent approving blessing—will not be her portion.

Moreover, having stolen the man by stealthy aggression and knowing his vulnerability to such approach, she would have no confidence in his stability and would be equally distrustful of all women, living in edgy anxiety lest some other pirate do unto her as she had done to his first wife. And I see no happiness in that prospectus.

To be attractive, healthy and happy after first youth, women need security, economic and social, preferably based on love-security in marriage (although money in one's own right is a great help, too, if one happens to have it!)—and to establish that type of security, it behooves a girl to by-pass philandering husbands and concentrate, in the springtime of life, on capturing an erstwhile undomesticated but absolutely sterling fellow. Hence, my advice is to revamp your crusade accordingly.

They're Cheaper to Feed

Bermuda's Prewar Surreys, Fringe 'n All, Give Way To Put Put of Midget Cars

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

BERMUDA.—What is this tiny tourist paradise like now that war's alarms has subsided? Basically, it's the same semifeudal empire outpost with a few practical if esthetically annoying modern flourishes superimposed. Midget cars—Austins, Vauxhalls, Crosleys—skip along the twisty, narrow lanes. Gray-green buses, courtesy of Chrysler, lumber along occasionally. Hundreds put-put on motorized bicycles.

The gay little railroad, which halted at such romantic stations as Khyber Pass, has closed on the Somerset end. Surreys complete with fringe and dignified drivers have almost disappeared. Horses are expensive to feed, no one bothers manufacturing carriages. As a result, Bermuda has become surprisingly mobile.

Prewar dining across island usually involved spending the night. Now taxis are cheap. It's easy to lunch in Somerset, cocktail at Midocan, dine in Fairylands. But the sheer pleasure of leisurely zigzagging along coral lanes has gone. Honking horns, the hazard of mud-splashing ruins cycling fun.

British Seek Haven From Shortages

AMONG the more permanent residents, the British at long last are outspending wealthy Americans. Refugees from Britain's cold and food shortages, they've crowded into the sterling area and, perhaps a trifle uncertain of the pound's future, are lapping up real estate like mad. House values have tripled and some Americans are selling out to the British, planning to buy back in a year or so when, they figure, a recession must start.

Meanwhile, though there's a housing shortage, all the big hotels will be opened shortly, and there's a surplus of transient rooms. The surplus is due to lack of transport. Planes can't ferry enough tourists, and boats are almost nonexistent.

The famous Monarch of Bermuda was burned while being reconverted; the Queen won't be ready for service until autumn. Three of the five "Lady" boats were sunk by submarines. Brightest star for Bermuda merchants was last Friday's arrival of the Veendam, the first cruise ship to thread Hamilton's shallow entrance since the war. At the moment, there's a move on in the local Parliament to dredge St. Georges Harbor, make it sufficiently deep for big boats to enter and make a quick turn-around.

Easter Lily Forecast

TODAY Easter lilies are just about the island's only export. Bermuda onions never leave home, and those consumed in Washington hail from Texas. The Smoot-Hawley tariff slapped 2 cents a pound duty on the island's eye waterers, made their export impossible. And just when the earliest buds are beginning to bloom, a lily crisis is brewing. For the past two years, growers have charged the same price shipping buds to individuals. Now the United States customs may raise the duty on these packages, thus forcing shippers to export all lilies wholesale or raise the cost on individual shipments anywhere from $1 to $1.75. The problem is still unsolved, but there's possibility of a happy ending. Other horticultural notes include a blight on Bermuda's famous cedar trees, the stripping of poinsettias, frangi-pangi and such by an autumn hurricane. However, passion flowers, hibiscus, morning glories, clematis and a million other blooms seem to be working overtime.

Looks Count Only 10 Per Cent In Climb to Hollywood Heights

By Ida Jean Kain

A movie story is often pictured in illuminating "flashbacks." We'll take that cue and flash back to scenes which take place before a girl sets foot on the first rung of the nebulous ladder to fame and fortune. That way we can see what it takes to get in the movies—besides luck. Our authority is Producer Charles (Buddy) Rogers. His answers to my probing questions were refreshingly candid.

If our producer were to tap you on the shoulder for a screen test, here's what would happen. First there would be a Personality Test, to see if you could project your personality through the eye of the camera. Of course, you'd have to be photogenic to come through pleasingly as far as looks go.

You would walk lightly onto a set, step over to a chair, sit down, perhaps reach for a cigarette, get up . . . gracefully of course, drop your handkerchief, pick it up . . . bending your knees, not your back . . . etc. Now if you "came through" strong, an acting test would follow—maybe with Gregory Peck!

What counts most? Strangely enough it's not beauty, says Mr. Rogers. "You could take the most beautiful girl in America, fly her to Hollywood, put her in front of the camera, and she might be a complete flop. For all her beauty, she might not make contact with the audience as well as a quiet little girl who had something really serious to give and felt it deep in her soul."

But the Hollywoods are full of beautiful glamour girls, I pointed out. Yes, and there's nothing wrong with glamour, our authority hastened to say, but a girl has to have more than that. In his frank opinion, all actresses would tend to look more or less alike with movie makeup unless they had an individual, spiritual type of beauty or strength of character that projected itself strongly through the camera.

In his latest picture, "Sleep My Love," Claudette Colbert is the star. Miss Colbert is not what you'd call a glamour girl. She's more than that. She has a realness, coupled with a natural gaiety, that makes her an all-time favorite.

And what about streamlines? Does our movie aspirant need to have a million-dollar figure? Well, the figure can't be too rounded, since the camera does exaggerate size, but a girl's figure need not be too breathtaking, Rogers added. The designers can fix flaws. Beautiful carriage and movement, he says, are more important than a beautiful figure—"you can tell a topnotch actress by her movements, that's a part of her stock-in-trade."

Take a bow, tall girls—height is no longer a handicap. Our producer said movie actresses are now proud to be tall and even exaggerate their height. Hazel Brooks, who is the "other woman" in his picture, is 5 ft. 7 in. tall—and terrific.

When I pinned him down as to why one starlet is given the breaks and another overlooked, he confessed it's luck. While he doesn't believe in fate, he believes in fate in Hollywood! Seventy per cent of getting in the movies, girls, is luck, 20 per cent ability, and 10 per cent looks—not necessarily beauty, but looks that project.

Thanks for the lowdown, Mr. Rogers.

A Clean Apron
Wear a big perfectly clean apron when working on delicate fabrics. Then if called away from the sewing job the apron may be removed with the work wrapped in it, where it will stay covered until it is time to sew again.

Glamour is not enough to establish a star in the movies, according to Producer Charles (Buddy) Rogers. Claudette Colbert has realness and a natural gaiety that come through to make contact with the audience

Fine Irish Linens Still Handwoven

The finest Irish linens—handkerchiefs, towels and sheets as well as intricately patterned damask table linens—are still woven by hand. One Belfast producer alone operates 52 hand looms, half of them in his factory and the rest in cottages in the district. The extra beauty of handwoven linens is due, in part, to the fact that finer yarns can be used than on power looms.

Rocking Junior to Sleep

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

It is a moment of such keen happiness to a mother to have the soft, warm bundle of baby flesh in her arms, that she loves holding it, rocking it and singing it to sleep. That babies find this a delightful way to float off to sleep, goes without saying. It is a habit, easy to start and most difficult to end.

For there always is a "future" time which has to be considered. If the baby becomes accustomed to motion when relaxing into sleep, then motion there must be from then on. And will the mother always be able to devote from a half to a whole hour singing, rocking, until those baby eyes are content to close? Every unnecessary attention she gives the baby has to be deducted from time devoted to other children, to her husband, to her house and to herself. It should be obvious that babies sleep as well, in fact better, when they are used to being laid in their beds, after feeding, and go off to sleep without rocking, singing or special attention from the parent.

Chest Failure Forces Agency To Release 2

Two full-time workers will have to be released by the Foster Day Care and Counseling Association and agency services must be drastically cut because of the failure of the Community Chest Campaign.

Mrs. Wayne Coy, association president, said yesterday that the 16 per cent cut in the 1948 budget will also mean less frequent supervisory visits to homes where children have been placed for care during the day. The remaining staff must take over the homes left unsupervised by workers who have been released.

Miss Gladys Cook, director of the service, said alternative to providing adequate day care is neglected and eventually delinquent children.

Miss Cook said that during 1947 1787 applications were made at the agency and 330 children were placed in day care homes. Counseling interviews were held with 578 persons. "The rising cost of living is one of the factors which is causing more women to seek employment and also motivating others to offer foster home care to children," she said.

60 Georgetown U. Alumni To Launch $800,000 Campaign

The afternoon session will review a recent alumni survey that indicated Georgetown would require $13,350,000 in building and endowment funds in the years immediately ahead.

Visits to various university activities will complete the afternoon program. The alumni, members of the campaign committee and key faculty members will be guests of the Very Rev. Lawrence C. Gorman, S.J., president, at a reception and dinner at 7 p. m. in Maguire Hall. James Conzelmann, coach of the Chicago Cardinals, will speak.

The D. C. National Guard 260th Anti-Aircraft Artillery Group last night announced the appointment of three new officers and the promotion of a fourth.

Ringside Table

LOVELIEST GALS IN TOWN are the Marilou Savage Dancers at the Casino Royal. By the same token, the raving beauties of the M. S. D. are Marilou herself (she's the streamlined redhead) and innocently blond Dorothy De Winter, captain of the line and planner of choreography. These charming youngsters (kiss is the show biz word) are grads of major revue work and this line is their first venture into producing for themselves. Their families and friends should be proud of them. The line and dancing are knockouts, the New York Copacabana costuming is magnificent. Marilou expects her mother, a prominent booker, to come down and give them a final sharp looking-over. From here they'll go to Baltimore's Chanteer with the blessing of their cute agent, Peggy Loeb. Little Jack Little came in to give the girls his congrats last night. Allez-oop, kids!

WANNA KISS, GIRLS? Tall and boyish Larry Marvin, singing at the Cairo, is so-o-o affectionate! He kisses some pretty ringsider at each show, chucks her chin playfully. At the opening show Larry played it safe, choosing a lass from an all-girl sorority for the object of his affections. But in any case, he's plenty careful.

Dona Mason of the King Cole Room returns to the radio tomorrow night via WTOP at 7 p. m. She'll harmonize with Jerry Carter, do solos, too.

THE REGULARS. Thirty years of happy eating at Olmsted's was recently celebrated by Real Estate Man Percy Keller—by another Olmsted dinner. With him were two friends who've been Olmsted customers for a mere 20 years. They were served by Waiter Nat, who's been at the restaurant for 25 years. . . . Night after night at Michel's you'll see Rudy Block, son of the famed short-story writer, Bruno Zessing. . . . There's never a week goes by at the Old New Orleans that good-looking Representative William G. Stratton of Illinois doesn't enjoy an evening in the spot's Sazerac Room.

HUNNICUTTING. A sort of entente was established between the Shoreham Blue Room and the Lounge Riviera the other night by Bill Hunnicutt. For some unknown reason Barne of the Blue Room gifted Bill with a cellophane encased gardenia. This he bore carefully to the Lounge Riviera where he pinned it on Paula Rae, singer with Bob Knight's band. Next Hunnicutt took over the piano, put on a show that was more than a show for those unfortunate late risers who don't catch his early a. m. radio seances.

The Mayflower Lounge buoyantly announces that Arline and Consuelo, young dancers of real distinction, will be held over until February 25. They're that varity, a dance duo who'll do audience requests.

TOM THUMB SCOTTIE. Manager Tom Kelley of the Hamilton Hotel and his lovely blond misbegotten a pint-size black Scottie named Duffy. For a time the Kelleys had high hopes for Duffy. They thought he might be the founding father of a line of toy Scotties that would sell for fabulous prices. They almost named him Imperial Royal Duffy of Glouco-Morra. . . . But things didn't pan out. Duffy's progeny at birth were almost as big as their pappy.

FOR FEBRUARY FREEZES. But buttered rum is a specialty at Ruby Foo's. Will warm you from your cerebellum to your toes. . . . Canadian bacon (remember it?) is served with broiled sweetbread at the Dubonnet Room. There's a platterful of extra-vitalized vitamins for you. . . . A berling hot toddy is the right order when you creep into Hi Hat from the God-forgotten rainy or sleety snowed-up outdoors. . . . Not hot, but of an insidious and tropical warmth is Merry-Land's "Ko-Ko Nuts Cocktail" (named for the spot's Ko-Ko Nuts with Jack Norman). It's made of white rum, powdered coconut and cream. . .

Jack Norman

Dr. Billy Has Been Listening to Too Many Forecasts

To be strictly formal about the matter, we should say that this little anecdote comes from Mrs. M. M. Berry of Auburn Gardens, Alexandria, Va.

But in the Washington Post composing room, where Mrs. Berry often sets part of this column on a linotype, everybody calls her "Ma." Ma was playing "Doctor and Patient" the other day. She was the patient, and her 4-year-old grandson, Billy, was the doctor. Dr. Billy placed a wooden thermometer under his grandmother's tongue and explained that he had to get her "temperishur" to find out how sick she was. After a brief interval he removed the thermometer and studied it with a silent gravity befitting his ancient profession. "Well, Billy," asked the patient at long last. "What's the temperature?" "The temperature is shur," announced Dr. Billy, "is 25 in the suburbs."

AUTOMOTIVE NOTE

Friends in the automobile business tell me that convertibles and station wagons are coming through faster than any other body styles. Reason: They require less steel.

LAYMAN'S FORECAST

When Povich wrote of spring training the other day, I knew it wouldn't be long before I'd be getting an item like this one — and sure enough, here it is: 1/Serg. Rowland Crosswell of 2940 1st st. s.e. saw a cardinal near Bolling Field yesterday.

The robins, like spring, appear to be a little late this year.

PERSONAL NOTES

Regina M. Leeper, Lexington Park, Md.: Yep, "my sanity is ebbing" but I'm not going to reopen my strange name business — not even for Wits End, Me. Janet Stephenson, 4726 N. 17th st., Arlington, Va.: And that goes for Massachusetts' Lake Chargogogogogomanchangogogchaubunagungamaug.

GIVE-AWAYS

"A pure-blooded male manx cat, 8 months old, will be put to sleep unless somebody wants him." (Manx means a small shearer. "Elgo" $183, between 9:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m.) "Female toy collie. A year and half old, Wants a nice home, so Let's tell old Bill Gold." (Vienna 95)

MISCELLANY

Sandra Shikis and Beverly Newman tell me that their fellow students in the 7B-1 section of the Paul Junior High School recently auctioned off some delicious fudge (made by Teacher M. E. Moore) and raised $16.85 for the March of Dimes. Speaking of schools, Valerie Bratt of 4421 Alton pl. n.w. reports that Woodrow Wilson is being painted, and one of the teachers there asked that her room be painted half yellow and half gray. When a colleague was asked how he liked it, he replied: "It looks half baked." And here's still another school note: Mrs. F. Tyler Swetnam tells me that the room mothers at Fairfax Elementary School are putting on a fun festival from 7 to 10 o'clock tonight. They'll have home-canned foods, pies, candy, guess-

Leonard Lyons...

NEW YORK — Mrs. Joe Louis, who tried to attach the heavyweight champ's purse in the Walcott fight, has effected such a complete reconciliation with him that she'll accompany Louis on his trip to England.

Bob Hannegan has disposed of his Washington house and all its furnishings and moved into a St. Louis home which he's rented for three years. Hannegan probably will appear at the presidential convention in Philadelphia as a delegate from Missouri. The president of the Mellon Bank in Pittsburgh leaves for London and Berlin shortly. His mission is a special one: He will make an economic and financial survey of western Europe in behalf of the War Department.

Although Hank Greenberg won't admit that he's signed with the Cleveland Indians, he and Mrs. Greenberg have rented an Arizona house near where the Indians will train.

Tommy Lyman, who has worked in cafes for over 30 years — during which he's encountered every type of drunk, was in Lindy's one night where he was asked: "What's the best way of handling a drunk?" Lyman replied: "Handling a drunk is like fighting a fellow — styles vary."

At the Baseball Writers Dinner Sunday night a box-holder dropped a bottle which landed on Toots Shor below him. "It's nuthin'," said Shor. "Luckily, it only fell on my head."

Joe Louis netted $11,200 as his share for his exhibition bout against Bob Foxworth in Chicago last week. A few hours before the bout, Louis visited his family and his 4-year-old daughter, Jacqueline, expressed a wish to see the fight. Louis shook his head. "But why can't I go to the fight?" Jacqueline insisted. "Because you're still a little girl," Louis explained. "You're too young." "But daddy," Jacqueline reminded him, "by the time I grow up you'll be too old to fight."

ing games, folk dances and a fashion show. A friend of mine went into a drugstore and asked for some liquid court plaster for his cracked fingernail.

PRESCRIPTIONS

"We don't have any liquid court plaster," replied the clerk brightly, "but here's some dandy liquid glue."

REID'S HIEROGLYPHS

After falling in my efforts to decipher a letter from Conrad "Old Man" Reid of 6703 Connecticut ave., Chevy Chase, Md., I dropped him a note complaining about his penmanship. His reply is:

"Aw, you're just a cross materialist. My handwriting is beautiful — even if it is impossible to read."

New Clew in Eccles Mystery?

By Drew Pearson

The mystery of who killed "Cock Robin" Marriner Eccles slowly begins to unravel. It now looks as if big, bluff A. P. Giannini, the West Coast banking tycoon, fired the fatal shot. In fact, friends of "A. P." say that when he got word Marriner Eccles was out as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, he put his large thumbs in the A. Giannini large armholes of his large vest and boasted, "Well, I did it."

The reason for Giannini's hostility to the man who kept the American banking system on an even keel all during the war is well known in banking circles. Eccles, who comes from Utah and whose father owned several banks of his own, long has opposed what he describes as the "banking octopus of the West Coast"—the Giannini chain. To combat this "octopus," Eccles last year helped draft a new bank holding company bill which Senator Tobey of New Hampshire introduced and which was approved by the Senate Banking and Currency Committee.

This brought storms of protest from the Gianninis. One telegram sent by A. P. and L. M. Giannini called Eccles: "A bureaucratic despot, who is trying to suppress free institutions through the exercise of dictatorial powers masquerading as administrative discretion."

Eccles, however, was not discouraged. He accused the Gianninis of trying to monopolize West Coast banking. He told Senators that 40 per cent of all banking offices and 38 per cent of all the commercial deposits in California, Arizona, Nevada, Oregon and Washington belonged to the Gianninis. He pointed to 41 banks in the Trans-America group operating the huge total of 619 banking offices, with aggregate deposits of more than $5,000,000,000 dollars. And he demanded of the Senate that this financial stranglehold be broken.

Even manufacturing firms, ranches, shipping and retail business on the West Coast are beholden to the Gianninis, Eccles claimed. He argued that this is too much power to put in the hands of only two men.

Eccles also has frowned on the approval of Giannini applications for the opening of between 15 and 20 new branch banks in California, now pending before Comptroller of the Currency Preston Delano. Though Eccles has no direct jurisdiction over the applications, he has informed Delano unofficially that the Federal Reserve Board feels that further Giannini expansion would be unfair to independent bank competitors.

Also, Eccles feels that the Reserve Board has a stake in this latest Giannini move, since the new banks would be national bank branches, and thus automatically become part of the Federal Reserve System, if approved.

Bankers Don't Forget

Naturally, this was not forgotten by the two bankers.

It also happens that these two financiers have been potent backers of the Democratic Party on the West Coast. Their financial influence in party circles is not to be sneezed at. And it was the question of campaign contributions to the Democratic Party which finally tilted the scales against Marriner Eccles.

Sam Husbands, former vice president of the Trans-America Corporation, is credited with doing part of the Eccles meat-axing. Husbands, a former member of the RFC, is a close buddy of Secretary of the Treasury, John Snyder.

Just how much John Snyder had to do with it isn't known. Truman swore that John was not guilty—which may have meant that John was only acting as messenger boy for the powerful Gianninis.

Note—In the end, the Gianninis won only half their battle. They didn't figure that Eccles would take the embarrassment of being denied as chairman and still continue on the board. Actually, Eccles will still control the balance of votes on the board, so the Gianninis battle is a long way from won. In fact, Senator Tobey is now more determined than ever to pass the new bank holding company bill.

Merry-Go-Round

Strict newspaper censorship has been placed on all information about the tests of new atomic weapons on Eniwetok Island.

News men can't even report the dates when certain weapons were tested for fear enemy scientists will be able to figure out the new weapons by studying air masses from the Pacific bases as they pass over their own land. The United States has virtually broken relations with the military and naval attaches of all nations behind the Iron Curtain except one—Czechoslovakia. Representative from Russia, Poland and Yugoslavia are still admitted to this country.

So many things

There are so many loving things... I want to say to you... That even in 100 years... I never would get through... I want to tell you how I feel... When I am at your side... And how you always fill my heart... With happiness and pride... But there are not sufficient words... To glorify a star... Or any phrases to describe... How wonderful you are... I only know I love you and... You mean the world to me... In every thought and every dream... Wherever I may be... And though I cannot tell you all... I want to say to you... Believe me, I adore you and... I promise to be true.
